CLEMENCEAU DENIES ANY ACCUSATION OF BRITISH

Says He Did Not Charge They Wilfully Let Ships Sink

EMBASSY ROUSED

Washington Envoy Quickly Takes Exception To "Tiger's" Talk

(Reuter's Service)

New Haven, Connecticut, Nov. 26.—M. Clemenceau declared here today that he did not charge the British with wilfully permitting the sinking of the German Fleet at Scapa Flow.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 25.—A statement issued by the British Embassy takes exception to M. Clemenceau's recent declaration that Britain "secured the guarantee of her national safety" by the sinking of the surrendered German fleet at Scapa Flow in 1919.

The Embassy denies any implication that the British authorities wilfully permitted the sinkings.

JUSTIFIES FRANCE

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Nov. 26.—In another speech at Boston today, M. Clemenceau justified the attitude of France, who was obliged herself to take the measures indispensable for her security, the guarantee pact, promised by President Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George not having been ratified by the American and British Governments.

HEARST ATTACKS BRITISH TO AID THE SHIP BILL

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 27.—The Hearst newspapers, which strongly support the Ship Subsidy Bill, have launched an anti-British attack on the eve of the vote on the measure in Congress.

The New York American published socalled disclosures which show alleged efforts of British Diplomatic and Consular representatives in the United States to influence the press against the Bill.

The British Embassy immediately issued an emphatic denial.

BULL FIGHTING SOON TO BE SEEN IN FRENCHTOWN

Chinese Promoters Secure Permit And Arena For Animals

Bull fighting will soon be seen in Shanghai. A vacant lot measuring over 20 mow has been secured on Rue Amiral Bayle for the performance of the bulls, which will be secured from Kinghua, Chekiang, where bull-fighting was in vogue long before the Spaniards ever thought of the sport.

License for the performances has already been secured from the French authorities, according to the announcement of the promoters. The management has its offices at 110 Teh Pai Lee, Rue du Consulat.

Over 40 trained bulls have been purchased from Kianghua for the performances.

Childers Went To Death Saying He Bore None A Grudge

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 27.—It has been ascertained that Childers was shot at Beggars' Bush Barracks. Before the execution took place he shook hands with the firing party. His last words were "I do not bear a grudge against anyone and I trust nobody bears a grudge against me." He denied that he was a "renegade Englishman" and declared that by birth, domicile and deliberate choice of citizenship he was an Irishman.

Newspapers Of Shanghai Blazing Trail For China, Says Associated Press Head

Mr. Frank B. Noyes, President Of Great American News Agency, Entertained At Dinner By Local Chinese Journalists Club

"The newspapers of Shanghai are blazing a wonderful trail for the rest of the Chinese press to follow. Without an independent unbiased press, a successful Republic is impossible," said Mr. Frank B. Noyes, President of The Associated Press of America, to members of the Chinese Journalists' Club and their foreign newspaper guests Sunday evening at a dinner given in honor of Mr. Noyes at the Y. P. S. Hotel.

Mr. Noyes expressed his pleasure in meeting so many of his fellow craftsmen and congratulated them on the successes already achieved, saying:

"During my stay in Peking I was frequently told by friends not to think of China as a country whose civilisation is thousands of years old, but as a Republic which has just celebrated its tenth birthday.

"With the exception of Shanghai, journalism throughout China is, passing through a formative stage. The same trials, disappointments and varying successes of the Chinese press may be compared to the formative period through which the American press has passed.

"A press which is subsidised in any way whatsoever cannot ever hope to be a free press with an editorial policy which will gain the confidence and respect of it's readers.

"Despite several personal reasons which made my stay in Peking somewhat longer than I had originally intended, I felt that there was more 'missionary' work to be done there than in Shanghai."

STRESSES IMPARTIALITY

Mr. Noyes then told of the necessity of establishing an absolutely impartial news gathering association in America, and the way in which the Associated Press, now comprising some 1,300 newspaper members, had met that need.

"A little more than thirty years ago in the United States, the organisation of a news agency, to be run on the co-operative basis, without profit was thought impossible. However, 130 newspapers started such an agency, the members of which exchanged news with each other.

"The ideal of The Associated Press was to collect news undefiled with partial bias, thus allowing editors full scope to adopt the policy they chose. In other words it played the part of a reporter, and of a reporter alone and unprejudiced.

"The Associated Press should neither be considered the prosecuting attorney, nor the attorney for the defence, but merely an impartial recorder of events. Its success may be attributed in a measure to its altruistic motives, until at present, with the exception of a few papers which have not been granted an Associated Press franchise for one reason or another, it comprises all the papers of any importance in the United States."

In conclusion Mr. Noyes said that he accepted the warmth of the reception accorded him not as a personal tribute alone but that through him the members of the Chinese press greeted their confreres in America.

"Remember always that there is no higher calling than that of a reporter, which has long since passed the apologetic stage. His power and influence is enormous in shaping the future of a country, let him therefore devote his best talents to it. Gentlemen, I wish you God speed in your work for your Republic."

PAYS TRIBUTE TO GUEST

Mr. Jabin Hsu, secretary of The Chinese Journalists Club introduced Mr. Noyes, saying that the latter's prolonged stay in Peking had made local journalists almost impatient with his partiality towards that capital of romance and mystery where every journalist was an embryo politician and every politician, a pseudo-journalist. He reminded Mr. Noyes that he had first met him at the Washington Conference at a reception given by the Italian Ambassador. The reception itself, Mr. Hsu said, was memorable, because it was at this function that the celebrated orator and statesman, William Jennings Bryan, took his first drink of alcoholic refreshment after being a total abstainer for all his life. He was lured to it by an enterprising scribe.

"I mention this not to cast any reflection on American statesmanship, nor on the budding scribe, but merely to enable Mr. Noyes to establish my identity," said Mr. Hsu.

"We like Mr. Noyes as friend. We like to make his acquaintance for his pleasing personality. I would be accused of being verbose indeed were I to deal with his work as a newspaperman for forty years. Tonight I shall confine myself to two phases of his service, namely, in consideration of the press as a powerful force for the diffusion of knowledge

CLEVELAND IS DELAYED; SAILS THIS AFTERNOON

Mail Closing At 2 p.m.; Nile Due Tomorrow From San Francisco

Because of the delay in the sailing time of the steamer President Cleveland, mails for Honolulu and the United States may be posted at the American Post Office up to 3 o'clock this afternoon. Registered matter will be received up to an hour before.

The Cleveland sails from the Standard Oil Wharf late this evening. The tender with outgoing passengers will leave the Customs jetty at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The vessel is due to arrive in San Francisco via Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu on December 17.

Following the Cleveland, the next mail for the States will dispatched on the President McKinley next Sunday.

A heavy mail from the States is due on the President Jackson which is expected to dock at the China Merchants' Central Wharf late this afternoon. The vessel comes from Seattle and is bringing 1,397 bags of mail and a full passenger list for this port. It is scheduled to sail for Hongkong and Manila at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

The Nile of the China Mail is due in Shanghai from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports tomorrow morning and will dock at the China Mechants' Lower Wharf about 7.30 o'clock. The vessel is to sail for Hongkong at 7 o'clock Thursday morning.

DR. TONG HELD FOR TRIAL BY HIGHER COURT

Dr. F. C. Tong, part owner of the Chinese Journal of Commerce, has been held for trial in the upper court, following the taking of evidence at the preliminary hearing held at the Nantao Procurate, it was learned last night.

Dr. Tong is held following an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Zi Zang-tseng, a mailing clerk formerly employed by Tong's publication. She committed suicide ten weeks ago.

Still Hold Fifteen Passengers From Ship For Questioning

Fifteen of the passengers on the s.s. Yingchow, who were among the sixty passengers taken off the ship and questioned by French police when the vessel arrived here Saturday, are still being held for investigation.

The passengers were detained by the police when information was received that a pirate plot to rob the vessels and passengers similiar to the Macao ship piracy was planned on the Yingchow.

The Chinese passengers were all cross-questioned by the French police and released as they satisfied the authorities, but fifteen are still held for questioning.

BRITAIN WITH AMERICA ON 'OPEN DOOR,' SAYS CURZON

He Welcomes Statement Of Child's, Says The Daily Mail

IS A BOMBSHELL

Stand Of U. S. Gives Shock To French Newspapers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 27.—In view of the speculation evoked by the American observer's statement at Lausanne on Saturday, it is noteworthy that Lord Curzon has authorised the Lausanne correspondent of the Daily Mail to state that the British delegation welcomes the United States' statement and that there is no divergence of view between the two Governments regarding the policy of the open door in the Near East where complete accord prevails in the matter of British and American interests.

Lausanne, Nov. 25.—The American observer, Mr. Child, in a statement to the First Commission emphasised that the sentiment of the American people overwhelmingly favored the policy laid down in the memorandum of Oct. 30 in reply to the invitation to the United States to be represented at the Conference, namely, the assumption that the Allies would not carry into effect agreements in respect of Turkish territory which would conflict with the principle of equality in economic opportunity and the open door.

Mr. Child was subsequently interrogated by journalists with regard to the special meaning of his statement but he declined to reply.

PROVES BOMBSHELL

Paris, Nov. 26.—Le Journal's correspondent states that Mr. Child's statement was a bombshell to the Conference especially to the British delegates but the Turks are pleased because Turkey has promised so many things to so many people that she is finding it difficult to steer a safe course.

The Figaro's correspondent expresses the opinion that the statement is aimed not only at the San Remo Agreement but also at the Franco-Kemalist Agreement.

NO NEW POLICY

Lausanne, Nov. 26.—It is learned from an American source that Mr. Child's statement is merely a clear exposition of the traditional policy of the United States in favor of the open door.

There is no ulterior motive and it does not represent any new policy with regard to the American interests in Europe anything else.

The statement was made yesterday because Mr. Child considered the moment propitious at this early non-committal stage of the Conference. Nevertheless, the statement surprised some quarters. Some persist in believing that it is not entirely unconnected with oil.

FIRST WEEK'S WORK

Lausanne, Nov. 26.—The sum total of the week's work of the Conference has been to settle Turkey's European frontier along the Maritza leaving West Thrace to Greece, to establish a broad demilitarised zone between Turkey on the one side and Greece and Bulgaria on the other, and, incidentally, to carry out the Treaty of Neuilly by giving Bulgaria an outlet on the Aegean Sea at Dedeagatch or in its neighbourhood.

HOLD ISLANDS FAST

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Nov. 26.—On Saturday afternoon the Lausanne Conference unanimously rejected the proposal to give autonomy to the whole of the islands in the Aegean Sea.

AGREE AS TO TROOPS

Paris, Nov. 27.—A telegram from Constantinople states that the conversations between Rafet Pasha and the Allied Generals have resulted in an agreement on the remaining point at issue concerning the relations of the Allied troops to the new Turkish administration.

Over 150,000 persons are estimated to have left Constantinople in the past few weeks.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

By the President of the United States of America

In the beginning of our country the custom was established by the devout fathers of observing annually a Day of Thanksgiving for the bounties and protection which Divine Providence had extended throughout the year. It is come to be perhaps the most characteristic of our national observances and as the season approaches for its annual recurrence it is fitting formally to direct attention to this ancient institution of our people and to call upon them again to unite in its appropriate celebration.

The year which now approaches its end is marked in the experience of our nation by a complexity of trials and triumphs over difficulties and of achievements which we must regard as our inevitable portion in such an epoch as that through which all mankind is moving. As we survey the experience of the passing twelve months we shall find that our estate presents very much to justify a nation-wide and most sincere testimony of gratitude for the bounty which has been bestowed upon us. Though we have lived in the shadow of the hard consequenies of great conflict, our country has been at peace and has been able to contribute toward the maintenance and perpetuation of peace in the world. We have seen the race of mankind make gratifying progress on the way to permanent peace, toward order and restored confidence in its high destiny.

WARREN G. HARDING

For the divine guidance which has enabled us in growing fraternity with other peoples to attain so much progress, for the bounteous yield which has come to us from the resources of our soil and our industry, we owe our tribute of gratitude and with it our acknowledgment of the duty and obligation to our own people and to the unfortunate, the suffering and distracted if other lands. Let us in all humility acknowledge how great is our debt to the Providence which has generously dealt with us, and give devout assurance of unselfish purpose to play a helpful and ennobling part in human advancement. It is much to be desired that in rendering homage for the blessings which have come to us we should earnestly testifyf our continued and increasing aim to make our own great fortune a means of helping and serving as best we can the cause of all humanity.

Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States of America, do designate Thursday, the thirtieth day of November, as a day of thanksgiving, supplication and devotion. I recommend that the people gather at their family altars and in their houses of worship to render thanks to God for the bounties they have enjoyed and to petition that these may be continued in the year before us.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this second day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-seventh.

Warren G. Harding.

A. C. Mack Goes To Trial On Liquor Larceny Charges In British Supreme Court

Albert Giesel Is First Witness Called In Case Growing Out Of Recent Spurious Cargo Action; Hearing To Be Continued Today

The trial of Arthur Charles Mack, central figure in the recent spurious liquor case, was begun yesterday before Judge Peter Grain and a jury in the British Supreme Court.

Mack is facing three charges of larceny of liquor and liquor cases from the firm of Giesel and Co., a fourth charge—that of conspiring with L. Battistuzzi to defraud the public by false representation in connection with certain brandy they manufactured—having been withdrawn. Mr. Albert Giesel was the first witness called, testifying at both morning and afternoon sessions.

The following jury was empanelled: Messrs. N. L. Sparke, S. G. Adams, T. W. Bowern, N. Burtenshaw, B. L. Lewis, Mr. N. B. Ramsay was fined £5 for non-attendance as a juror.

The Crown Advocate, Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, assisted by Mr. P. W. Goldring, prosecuted, while the accused was defended by Mr. Tycho Wing and Mr. J. O. Andersen.

The Crown Advocate, in outlining the case, said the accused was charged on three counts of larceny. The first one was that in the month of June last when clerk of Giesel and Co. he stole from the firm 227 cases of vermouth. The second count charged him with stealing 10 barrels of whisky in the month of August or September last, and the third with stealing 48 empty beer cases in the month of August or September last.

DEFINES CHARGES

The Crown Advocate read section 17A (1) of the Larceny Act on which the present charges were based which recited that any servant stealing any chattels, money or valuable security belonging to or in the possession of power of his master or employer was guilty of larceny. Mack was in the employ of Giesel and Co. at the time these acts of larceny were committed. The vermouth mentioned in the first charge was in the possession of Giesel and Co. They were there in order that Giesel and Co. might sell them to liquidate a debt owed by Reids and Co., Ltd. It was not necessary to prove that all the articles were stolen if it could be shown that some of the articles were stolen. Reids Ltd., Inc., was an American firm that dealt apparently in wines and liquors. They got into difficulties and went into liquidation. They owed money to various people, including Giesel and Co. They had a suit brought against them in the American Court and certain of their stock came into the hands of the Marshal of the United States Court and Giesel and Co. got the selling of some of it. In the month of March last Giesel decided to take over Reids' stock and engaged Mack. Mr. Giesel would tell the Court that he had no experience and the reason for engaging Mack was that he was an expert on the goods that Giesel and Co. proposed to sell. Mack entered the employ of Giesel and Co. for the special business of managing the disposal of the wines that Giesel and Co. were liquidating. Mack went to Tientsin about the end of July and returned about the middle of August. Before that there were deals with Battutzzi and Blumenthal and it turned out now that Blumenthal was acting in the interests of various firms in the wine business and suspected that there was something

BERNARD GOLDENBERG, THEATER MANAGER, IS MURDERED BY ROBBERS

Well-Known Theatrical Man Found Dead In Bedroom Of Apartments Over Victoria Theater ---Killed By Robbers Who Take Diamond Rings And Money

POLICE ARE BAFFLED FOR CLUES

Attempt To Solve Mystery At Inquest This Morning---Conflicting Stories As To When He Was Last Seen Alive

Bernard Goldenberg, General Manager of the Ramos Amusement Company and manager of the Victoria Theater, was found murdered in his apartments over the Victoria just before noon yesterday. He was found dead on the floor of his bedroom just inside the door, his skull smashed in, and a heavy two-foot club, pajama trousers over his face, the floor beside the body, splotched with blood, lying on Robbery probable motive.

The murder is shrouded in mysterious details that are rivalled only by the famous Neumann murder case of a decade ago, and despite the vigilant work of several of the Shanghai police's best detectives no definite clue pointing toward the murderer or murderers has been uncovered.

The murder was discovered when police from the Hongkew station were called to the theater just before noon yesterday after Mr. A. Ramos, owner of the moving picture concern which operates the Victoria, Olympic, Empire and two Chinese cinemas, had become suspicious at Mr. Goldenberg's continued absence. The body was removed to the Public Mortuary after Dr. E. L. Marsh had been called and pronounced Mr. Goldenberg dead.

INQUEST TODAY

An inquest will be conducted at the Spanish Consulate-General at 126 Szechuen Road, corner of Hongkong Road, by Mr. N. Aall, the Acting Spanish Consul-General at 10 o'clock this morning, at which two Indian watchmen who were on duty at the theater all night, are expected to be important witnesses. The watchmen were taken to the Hongkew police station yesterday afternoon to be held as witnesses after one of them had told police he saw Mr. Goldenberg at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and handed him a telegram despite the fact that Dr. Marsh, the attending physician, gave it as his opinion that Mr. Goldenberg had been dead ten or twelve hours when the body was found.

RETIRED AT 11 P.M.

When the Victoria closed shortly after 11 o'clock last night Mr. Goldenberg had a short talk in the theater offices off the lobby with Mr. Paul S. Crawley, who is constructing a film studio in Shanghai for the Ramos company, and Mr. A. Rangel, another moving picture man. At 11:30 o'clock Mr. Goldenberg announced that he had to be up early the next morning and went upstairs to his apartment, carrying his overcoat over his arm. Mr. Crawley and Mr. Rangel left and knew nothing of the murder until noon yesterday.

Mr. Crawley said that Mr. Goldenberg had made no mention of going out, but on the contrary had made the definite assertion that he was going to bed.

When the room was broken into by police Mr. Goldenberg's body was found just inside the door, his overcoat on the floor nearby, and it is assumed that the murderer or murderers laid in wait for him and as he entered the room and attempted to turn on the electric lights one of the murderers struck him across the back of the head with the club that was found nearby. Pajama trousers with one leg missing, were found covering his face, and it is thought to be possible that after he was knocked senseless, the murderers, to make sure he would not recover consciousness, wrapped the pajamas soaked in chloroform about his face. The pajamas will be tested by chemists to see if chloroform or any other anaesthetic had been used.

SHADED LIGHTS

The murderers, either before or after Mr. Goldenberg had been struck down, had torn off one leg of the pajamas and hung it about the electric light globe to dim the light. Mr. Goldenberg's two diamond rings, valued at $2,000, were taken from his fingers, and his wallet, thought to contain between $800 and $900, and key-ring were also removed. The robber-murderers then ransacked a trunk in the room at their leisure before leaving.

As no keys were found, either on his person or in the room, and the doors were all securely locked, it is assumed that the murderers carefully locked the doors and carried the keys with them. The keys to the theater safe, which is in another small building attached to the theater, were also missing, but all the contents were found intact when a Mustard and Company mechanic drilled the safe open yesterday in the presence of police.

POLICE BAFFLED

Police are baffled as to how the murderers gained admittance to Mr. Goldenberg's room, and how they escaped after he was murdered and robbed. The only two entrances or exits to the room in

HARBORD WILL HEAD RADIO CORPORATION

Major-General James G. Harbord, Chief of Staff of the United States Army and one of the leading American military leaders, has resigned to accept the presidency of the Radio Corporation of America, which is one of the leading interests in the construction of the five American wireless stations in China, according to information received by The China Press last night.

General Harbord was Chief of Staff of the American forces in France during the war, and after the war was head of the American Mission to Armenia.

The Radio Corporation of America is the biggest radio organisation in the world, and controls radio activities in the United States. It is interested with the Federal Wireless Company in the building of the five wireless stations in China for which a party of radio engineers recently arrived in Shanghai.

Scidmore, American Consul General At Yokohama, Succumbs

Yokohama, Nov. 27.—The death is announced of Mr. George Hawthorne Scidmore, Consul General for the United States here. He was 68 years old.

Consul General Scidmore entered the Consular Service in 1876 at Liverpool, becoming vice consul general at Shanghai in 1885. He was appointed full Consul at Nagasaki in 1907 and was made consul general at Seoul in 1909, going to Yokohama in 1913 as successor to Consul General Sammons who was promoted to Shanghai. Mr. Scidmore was widely known among the businessmen of the world for his voluminous reports on the commerce and industries of Korea and Japan.

Mr. Scidmore had a slight attack of apoplexy during the visit of the Prince of Wales to Yokohama on the occasion of the unveiling of the Memorial Arch. While the ceremony was proceeding Mr. Scidmore fainted and was carried off. Since then he has been in indifferent health.

which he was found dead late through into the theater lobby and up the stairs or through the servants quarters in the rear and down a fire-escape.

ALIVE IN MORNING?

Two Indian watchmen are on duty at the theater all night, one sleeping on a cot just inside the lobby entrance. When Mr. Ramos arrived at the theater at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, the watchman was still on duty and when asked about Mr. Goldenberg, informed Mr. Ramos that Mr. Goldenberg had gone out about 7 o'clock. Mr. Ramos went on about his work for two hours and as Mr. Goldenberg did not appear, he again called the Indian watchman. The watchman again asserted that Mr. Goldenberg had left the theater at 7 o'clock and told Mr. Ramos that he had given Mr. Goldenberg a telegram which had arrived late at Sunday night.

Mr. Ramos waited a short time and then went upstairs to Mr. Goldenberg's room. The door to the room was locked and climbing up on a box and looking through the glass panels of the door, Mr. Ramos saw that a trunk in the room was open and the contents scattered about. He then discovered that another trunk in the adjoining room had been opened and realising that something had happened to Goldenberg, called for the police.

According to the watchman's story, it would have been impossible for anyone to have left the theater by the front entrance after Goldenberg had been murdered as he slept alongside the door all night and the door, which is fastened with an inside slide-lock, was locked in the morning when he got up. The mystery is further deepened by the assertion of the watchman that he saw Mr. Goldenberg alive at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. If Mr. Goldenberg did leave the theater at that hour, as the watchman says, police are attempting to work out a theory as to what time he returned and was murdered. No one saw him return to the theater, and no one else except the watchman saw him alive after 11:30 o'clock on Sunday night.

THE BACK EXIT

The other entrance and exit from the room leads through a room where the boy and his wife sleep and down a fire-escape to a small court. The boy, however, told police that he had heard nothing in the room during the night, and had heard no one pass through his room, coming or going. Police therefore faced with the baffling theory that the robber-murderers left either through the boy's room without his knowledge, out the front door without disturbing the Indian watchman and locking the door on the inside as they left, or through some other exit still undiscovered. Close search of the room yesterday, however, showed that all windows in the room were locked on the inside and that both doors were also locked. There is no skylight in the room.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE

One of the strangest coincidences unearthed by the police during their investigation was the finding of a moving picture poster on one of the windows of Mr. Goldenberg's room which depicted a man being slugged in the back of the head by a woman with a club in her hand. Other baffling and mysterious angles in the case are still being investigated by the police among them being Detective Inspector Reeves, Inspector McGregor of Hongkew station, Detectives Sergeants Prosser and Balchin.

Detective Inspector Peck of the Finger Print Bureau of the Department of Criminal Intelligence went to the scene as soon as police received the report and took finger prints all about the room, including the door which the robbers must have opened to enter, and on the club which was used.

Mr. Goldenberg was a resident of Shanghai for 20 years. He was a Spanish Jew, a subject of Spain, and a member of several Masonic bodies in the Philippines, being a Mason and a Shriner. He was about 50 years old and married. His wife and four children live with Mr. Goldenberg's aged mother at 11 Yates Road. The mother was not informed of the tragedy until a late hour last night as it was feared the news might be such a shock that it would kill her. Mr. Goldenberg is also survived by a brother in Manila, a brother in San Francisco, and a sister in Oakland, California.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Bubbling Well Road Cemetery. The Victoria Theater was closed last night out of respect to his memory and will remain closed until after the funeral today.

A. C. Mack Goes To Trial On Liquor Larceny Charges

wrong in the wine godown at 1 Chaoufoong Road.

The Crown Advocate said the jurors were not there to try who was responsible for the "stretching" of certain liquors, nor to try the strength of the vermouth that came into the godown of Giesel and Co. The godown was raided in September last. As a result of that raid it was found that some of the liquors from that godown had been taken surreptitiously under the directions of Mack first to one Chinese house and then to another one. The results of that raid was that a charge was brought against Giesel of forging and uttering false trade marks. The proceedings in the French Court were not only criminal but also civil. Statements were made by Mack which would incriminate him. Giesel was found guilty in the French Court, fined and ordered to pay damages to Hennessy and Nolly Pratt.

REFERS TO OTHER CASE

The Crown Advocate explained that the judgment of the French Court was that Giesel did not know about it, and that he ought to have known. What Mack was charged with at present was not forging trade marks but with stealing and fraudulently dealing with and disposing of certain goods, some of them in the hands of Giesel and Co. for selling and some of them the actual property of Giesel and Co.

Dealing finally with the 227 cases of vermouth that were removed from Mackenzie's godown in Pootung to the godown in Chaoufoong Road, the Crown Advocate said they were labelled Nolly Pratt vermouth, but they were not the real Nolly Pratt. No sale of Nolly Pratt was ever reported to Giesel and it was not until September 8 last when Mack reported that the godown was raided that it was found out.

As regards the second charge of stealing ten barrels of whisky, the Crown Advocate said these barrels were Sunnybrook whisky. Giesel had not sold these barrels. As regards their situation Mack said they were in his mother's house.

Mr. Nelson E. Lurton testified that when he was acting Marshal of the United States Court in June last he had certain cases of liquor belonging to Reids, Ltd., under his charge. Under a writ he seized this cargo and placed it in storage in Mackenzie's godown in Pootung. The creditors of Reids, Ltd., had filed a request that the liquor be turned over to Giesel and Co. to be sold for the benefit of the creditors and the proceeds turned over to the United States Marshal. On June 15 last Giesel and Co. signed a receipt and the liquors were turned over to them. The negotiations in this connection were conducted between him and Mack. There was no inventory taken of the wines. He did not even remember the mark on the cases.

GIESEL TESTIFIES

Albert Giesel, examined by the Crown Advocate, said he had been in Shanghai for the last 27 years. He was a German and his firm closed down during the War. He came back in January, 1921, and was engaged in import and export trade. He was introduced to Reids through Mack in March, 1921. Mack was then in the employ of Reids, Ltd. They inquired whether his firm could supply them with German beer, and negotiations were closed for the supply of a very large quantity of this. Before Reids could take delivery of a substantial part of the goods ordered that firm got into difficulties and their total debt was considerable. In September or October last year it was felt that Reids were in financial difficulties and unable to meet their commitments. Stone, their manager, had opened negotiations with Giesel and assured the latter that fresh capital would be raised, but these hopes did not realise and suddenly Stone disappeared from Shanghai. Giesel and Co. were left with the goods ordered for Reids. About the time that Stone left the Chinese American Bank had taken attachment proceedings, and his firm was landed with a lot of goods. There had been no creditors meeting and his firm had to work out its own salvation, and dispose of the goods that were ordered for Reids. He took over Mack in April. When Mack joined his firm he was in the Klanses Road office and afterwards transferred to the godown. The Chaoufoong Road godown was rented from the Mercantile Bank of India.

With regard to the 227 cases that came from the Chinese American Bank, Mr. Giesel said he knew nothing at all about their contents, nor did he know whether they included any vermouth. His firm bought from the Mercantile Bank 187 cases of Marie Novon. When he took over the godown there was a lot of wines and liquors uncased. It also contained 60 to 70 cases of Marie Novon vermouth. Altogether there were in the godown 350 cases of Marie Novon vermouth. A number of these cases had sediment and a quantity was refiltered. There were a number of coolies and others in the godown engaged by Mack.

AS TO RELABELLING

Questioned by the Crown Advocate as regards the vermouth that came from Mackenzie's godown, Giesel said the question of relabelling was mentioned to Mack by the Bank. Mack had told him that this vermouth bore false labels that labelled Nolly Pratt was actually Marie Novon, and that they were falsely altered. Giesel stated that Mack had told him that the Bank did not want these cases of vermouth to be on the market with a false brand. Witness had no direct dealing with the Bank. Nolly Pratt was a very well-known name, and this vermouth was more expensive than Marie Novon. Witness had no objection to the vermouth being labelled properly. He was informed by Mack that the expense of relabelling would be $2 20 per case and after paying the Bank's commission witness realised there would be nothing left. Witness pointed out that it was necessary to worry about the Bank's vermouth when the firm itself had 300 cases of vermouth of its own which could not be sold easily.

The ten barrels of whisky he had bought from Mack in June and had paid for them by cheque. At that time it was practically impossible to get American whisky. This was the Sunnybrook Rye whisky.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wing, Giesel said the prosecution in the lower court was a private one.

"You said to the court below that the object for which you started the prosecution was to clear yourself"—"Yes, before the public in Shanghai."

Giesel said that he was not in accordance with many of the comments that the French Court had made in the judgment that they handed down against him. He may have had the machinery for making false labels but no false labels were manufactured by him.

"Did they make the comment that you took over the stuff from Reids, Ltd., for the making of spurious liquors?"—"Yes, they made that comment."

"You started this prosecution on a charge against Mack of manufacturing spurious liquors for the purpose of selling them to Blumenthal?"—"Yes."

BLUMENTHAL NOT HERE

"And you did not call Blumenthal as a witness?"—"He is not here."

"I put it to you that you knew from the start everything about the manufacture of these spurious liquors, and you knew of the taking away of the vermouth and the cases containing the spurious brandy from the godown."—"I did not know."

"You knew there was a question of altering the labels and it was decided not to do on the question of expense?"—"No, the question was still undecided. Being merchants we are interested in the sale of our own stuff, before we sell for some other party."

"I suggest that the cases and the vermouth were taken out in a hurry else the people at the back of Blumenthal would find out when the raid was made?"—"The vermouth was put in June and the search was made in September, so there could have been no hurry."

"I suggest that you knew about the manufacture of this brandy?"—"I did not."

"Did not Mack tell you that the vermouth was in his house?"—"He did not. He mentioned something about the vermouth being in his house on September 9. I dismissed him."

"What you mean by the term stretched?"—"I would rather use the word 'blending,' that is mixing a better quality wine with a lower quality."

Witness added that the essences found in the godown at the time of the raid were not his.

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

Bethlehem Steel Buys Midvale Co For $97,550,000 Gold

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 25.—The President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation has announced the purchase of the Midvale Steel Company giving the Corporation an ingot capacity of 7,600,000 tons. The price was $97,550,000 payable in Bethlehem common stock.

The President added that the Attorney-General was satisfied regarding the regularity of the transaction but that some opposition might be expected from the Federal Trade Commission.

Obituary

MR. BOILE CHRISTIANSEN

Mr. Boile Christiansen, a well known Shameen engineer and importer died in a Chinese hospital near Tungshau, on November 15, according to news just reaching Shanghai after a short illness.

Mr. Christiansen received his engineering training in the United States, coming to China as an engineer on the Taikoo Docks at Hongkong, and later for three years on the Shanghai-Nanking Railroad. Returning to Canton in 1907 he became Assistant District Engineer of the Kowloon-Canton Railroad at Canton. He resigned in 1916 to head his own engineering firm at Canton.

Mr. Christiansen was a Mason and prominently identified with several China lodges. For a time he was Acting Consul at Canton for Sweden and Denmark. His body was cremated and the ashes will be sent back to his home in Verde, Denmark. He is survived by a wife and daughter in Canton, and a father and three brothers in Denmark.

long the common multitude and a medium for peace.

"The modern press is the greatest force for the distribution knowledge and intelligence at we know of. It publishes ternational arrangements, poli- al movements, social advance- nts, literary achievements, ysical culture, industrial and mmercial activities and, in ort, everything that the human nd desires to know or under- nd. Through it, the layman is le to learn of the world events d enlarge his sphere of activi- . Without the press, indeed, ucation would have been the nopoly of the chosen few.

REACHES 40,000,000

"As the active head of the sociated Press, Mr. Noyes has oded the press with abundance wholesome news, enabling the en in the street not only to be lightened by the doings of the orld but to participate in the sults of human progress. eaching as it does 40,000,000 of ople daily, the Associated Press the greatest news agency in merica, if not in the entire orld. As I understand it, it is e only 'private mutual' agency the world that pays no vidends, that is, all the profits ade through the efficiency and isdom of men like Mr. Noyes d his associates, do not go back individual pockets, but come ck in the form of an increased d improved news service.

"Secondly, the press is the ghtiest force for the bringing oint of international peace. uring the war, editors were in- ined to ask the question hether the report concerned our riend or foe rather than the uestion whether it was the truth falsehood. Patriotism is a reat thing, but it is sometimes angerous to the truth. I believe he Associated Press was one of hose that kept its head cool and dgment clear all the time al- ough the ethical standard of ertain sections of the press had unk very low.

"The moral level of the press is aised higher than ever, because e all realise the gigantic force ith which the press leads the orld in its opinions and activi- es. To be a member of this rofession is a privilege of which e are all proud. Besides uplift- g and enlightening humanity, ur one great task is to assist in astening the day of that Utopia herein no longer a human being ed to battle against his brother.

"The activities of Mr. Noyes in is respect have been especially uccessful. Himself an ardent dvocate of peace, the Associated ress and the Washington Star ave been doing much to dispel nternational ignorance. Ignor- nce as we know breeds misunder- tanding and misunderstanding s the cause of ninty percent of uman warfare.

"During the Washington Con- erence, the services of the As- ociated Press and the Washing- on Star were especially note- orthy. Very effectively, they ade the diplomats gathered in Washington come to the realisa- ion of the weight of popular lamor, that clamor so ably voiced y your president, Warren G. Harding, that 'we want less of rmament and none of War.'

"Gentlemen, we have gathered ere tonight to greet Mr. Noyes s a friend, to admire him as a uccessful leader, but above all, o honor him because he has ful- illed the two supreme duties of a ournalist namely, the diffusion of ntelligence among the great com- non mass and the bringing the ations of the world into a closer ond of friendship."

GUEST AT TIFFIN

Yesterday Mr. Noyes was the guest of honor at a tiffin given by Mr. W. Turner, General Manager of Reuter's in the Far East, to enable him to meet the heads of the daily press in Shanghai.

Mr. Turner informed Mr. Noyes that there were 18 daily newspapers in Shanghai, which included 10 Chinese, five English language, two Japanese and one French.

Mr. Turner continued: "With regard to newspapers published in the English language there is at present one daily newspaper for every 1,500 of the English-speaking population, which must surely a record for any place in the world.

"It is often said," continued Mr. Turner, "that Shanghai is not China. And in a sense it is true. But apart from Shanghai's place as a great commercial center, Shanghai's influence on China proper, certainly north of the Yangtsze, through its educational institutions and its press is very considerable.

"Mr. Noyes is naturally very much interested in newspapers and newspaper conditions. In Shanghai he will see by far the most modern type of Chinese newspaper. Having recently been to Osaka he knows something of modern Japanese daily newspapers, their immense enterprise and their huge circulations, some of them amounting to three-quarters of a million.

CIRCULATION POSSIBILITIES

"What will the circulation of our leading Chinese newspapers be when the popular standard of education in China approximates that of Japan? The figures ought to exceed those of anywhere else in the world.

"However I think that most newspaper men feel that great as is the part played by circulation and advertisement revenue in the life of a newspaper, the ultimate criterion of its worth to the world at large is its influence for good. In this connection I am sure that a thought will occur to Mr. Noyes that occurred to me when I first reflected on the great possibilities for good or evil of the Chinese press of the future. It is that it will develop without going through that transition stage which a section of the press of the West has gone or is going through, namely, the stage of what for a lack of a better name has been called 'yellow journalism.'

"All experienced pressmen know the dangers of yellow journalism and are instinctively opposed to it. Its dangers in a country like China can be easily imagined. Therefore all well-wishers of the Chinese press will hope that in its progress towards its full development and expression it will avoid the 'yellow' stage."

Mr. Turner concluded by expressing the belief insofar as England and America are concerned, that we are approaching the time in daily newspaper development when it will be found to pay in the long run not to exaggerate, not to pander merely to the excitable or unwholesome appetite, and to be absolutely fair in stating an opponent's case. The speaker emphasised the cordial relations which have always existed between Reuter's and The Associated Press.

MR. NOYES SPEAKS

Mr. Noyes said he was not expecting to be called upon to speak but that he would be prepared to answer questions. He expressed the confident hope that in view of the remarkable progress made by the Chinese newspapers of Shanghai, the day is not distant when Chinese newspapers of a financially self-supporting nature would abound in the land and that no paper would find itself in the deporable position of depending upon extraneous sources of revenue for its maintenance.

At the request of Mr. Turner, the speaker drew a graphic word picture of the Associated Press from the standpoint of its organisation and news service. "The Associated Press is not a commercial venture," he said, "as its aim is not to make money for its members and it declares no dividends, its surplus revenue being used for the improvement of its service.

"In the beginning the Associated Press had only 130 members. These were American newspapers which saw the necessity and importance of subscribing to the maintenance of a news service the cost of which they would share proportionately while each member performed the function of a news reporter by furnishing the Associated Press with the news that might be gathered in the locality where the newspaper was situated. The news would be circulated among the members of the Associated Press save those who happen to be located in the same locality as that of the news paper by which the news was furnished.

"The Associated Press guards with exceeding jealousy its special privilege of selecting the news which goes out to its members and it will under no circumstances permit this selection to be made for it by any other organ, however influential, not even the State Department of the American Government itself. If the Associated Press were disposed to become in some sense a political organ, it could have news exclusively supplied to it by the American Government but such a proposition would never be entertained by the Associated Press."

FOREIGN NEWS SERVICE

Mr. Noyes then outlined the practices that have been followed by the Associated Press in securing its supply of foreign news. An arrangement was entered into between the Associated Press and a group of foreign news agencies including Reuter's. According to this arrangement members of the Associated Press would practically be limited to newspapers located in the North American Continent. The Associated Press did not want to include Canadian newspapers on its membership list because Canada, though included in this world division of news service, was a British colony and as such should not be made to depend on an American enterprise such as the Associated Press for its news service. The result was the formation of a separate Associated Press in Canada.

Mr. Noyes remarked that in the old days the foreign news with which the Associated Press furnished the American newspapers on its membership list was supplied from London, and as the news was selected from a British standpoint, it did not suit the requirements of the American public just as the news furnished from an American standpoint would not measure up to British expectations. The Associated Press consequently placed correspondents of its own in all important capital cities of the world where the occurrences are calculated to constitute news of general interest.

U. S. NEWS INADEQUATE

Mr. Noyes regards the present news service which the American community in China receives and which comes to China via London as being very unsatisfactory, and he considers that the time has come for the devising of the best practicable measures for the correction of this fault.

Mr. Noyes spoke with pride of the success and growth of the Associated Press whose members, numbering 130 only in the beginning, were increased to 600 in 1910, and since then the total membership has risen to 1,300, including many important news papers which find the news service of the Associated Press so comprehensive that they need no other news service beyond their local news service which every paper is of course suppos ed to furnish itself exclusively. All of which achievement is due in the opinion of Mr. Noyes to the invincible fidelity with which the Associated Press has adhered to its singleness of purpose, that of serving the newspapers as a gatherer and supplier of uncolored and unprejudiced news, free from political and religious bias and devoid of the element of personal opinoins.

TIFFIN TODAY

In honor of Mr. Noyes and of Dr. Sherwood Eddy, of the International Committee, Y.M.C.A., the American Chamber of Commerce and the American University Club will give a joint tiffin this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock at the Carlton Cafe.

FENG'S SOLDIERS GIVEN FAREWELL FETE IN CHEFOO

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Chefoo, Nov. 22.—The Chefoo Chinese Christian community gave a farewell reception to a number of General Feng Yu-hsiang's soldiers at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The soldiers have just completed a three months' course of training here and will leave on Saturday for Tsingtao, where they will take over the duties of harbor police when the city is again placed under Chinese control on December 1.

During their stay in Chefoo these soldiers have earned an excellent reputation for efficiency and trustworthiness and as a token of their esteem the Chinese community presented them with a silk pennant, bearing the four characters, "Che Tou Ching Ring" ("Soldiers of Christ").

A display of exhibits to be sent to the New York Silk Exposition was held today at the Chefoo Silk Cuild. The exhibits included raw silk from about thirty different filatures and several pongees which are interesting as being partially machine-made and of new weaves.

Minister of the Navy, Admiral Tang Hsiang-ming;
Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Alfred Sze;
Minister of Finance, Mr. Chang Ying-hua;
Minister of the Interior, Mr. Liu Meng-kung;
Minister of Justice, Mr. Chu Fu-tseng;
Minister of Education, Mr. Ma Lin-yi;
Minister of Communications, Mr. Wu Yu-lin;
Minister of Commerce, Mr. Kao Ling-wei or Mr. Wang Yu-chih.

WANG AND KOO IMPEACHED BY THE PARLIAMENT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 27.—Three hundred and one members were present in the House of Representatives today. The Chairman, Mr. Wu Ching-lien, presided. A motion to impeach Dr. Wang Chung-hui and Dr. Wellington Koo on the ground that they took part in the signing of the so-called Austrian Loan was brought forward and carried by 262 votes against 39.

The House is now going on with the impeachment of the judicial authorities.

Spanish Steamer Capsizes And 10 Passengers Drown

(Reuter's Service)

Barcelona, Nov. 27.—A customs vessel ran into and capsized a small passenger steamboat which was serving the seaside suburbs of Barcelona, hurling into the water the 30 people on board. Ten bodies have been recovered and it is feared that there were other victims. Seventeen of the survivors were injured.

Hold Memorial Service For Late Dr. Wu Ting-fang

The esteem and respect held for the late Dr. Wu Ting-fang were manifested Sunday by the large attendance at the memorial Service held at 3 Gordon Road, his former Shanghai home. At the main room where obeisance was rendered to the late statesman was his photograph, almost buried in floral offerings from his many friends, Chinese and foreigners. Among wreaths sent was one from President Li Yuan-hung.

In the hall, the stairway, the parlor and the study were hung hundreds of scrolls with appropriate quotations, all testifying to the quality and ability of the deceased. By a coincidence the scrolls sent by President Li Yuan-hung and Dr. Sun Yat-sen bore the same inscription, a verse from the Confucian Canon.

The list of those who called to pay this last tribute of respect was a very long one and among the most prominent ones were Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Ho Feng-lin, representing the President and the Military Authority of Shanghai, almost all his coadjutors in the late Canton Government, Mr. Hsu Yuan, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Shanghai, the local Chinese magistrates, Judge C. S. Lobingier, ex-Tuchuns, ex-Governors, ex-Commissioners for Foreign Affairs of the last and present regime, the representatives of Guilds, Associations, Unions, Colleges, Schools, Chambers of Commerce, delegates of the Cabinet, Speakers, Houses of Parliament, and Provincial Assemblies and cities and towns of South of China, several of which read addresses before the shrine.

News Brevities

General Wang Ta-wei, one of the commanders of the Northern Expedition, arrived in Shanghai by the steamer Ningshin Sunday after being summoned by Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Police Capture Five Armed Men

Five Chinese found heavily equipped with deadly weapons and believed to be members of the gang responsible for recent armed robberies in Tongshan and Yuenfong Roads, have been captured by the police.

The men were rounded up in a Harbin Road lodging house and were found to be in possession of automatic pistols, daggers and slugging irons. The Yuenfong Road robbery took place Saturday night, when four men broke into a Chinese dwelling, held up the inmates and secured $500 in notes.

Miss Keith's Works At Royal Asiatic On Dec. 4 And 5

The fascinating wood block color prints of Korea, Japan and Peking by Miss Elizabeth Keith which have been on exhibition at the B.W.A. headquarters for several days will be exhibited at the Royal Asiatic Society Hall, 5 Museum Road, December 4 and 5 from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Those who have not seen this very worth while collection should do so as Miss Keith's work has received recognition and praise in Europe and America. She is one of the leading women artists to revive the ancient wood block work.

The Council of the Royal Asiatic Society was so impressed with the exquisite studies of Korean Japanese and Chinese life that it invited Miss Keith to exhibit her color prints in the Society Hall.

Ferrier Again Champion Of Shanghai Golf Club; Plays Remarkable Game

In Bitter Cold And With Gale Sweeping Course He Shows Mastery Of Every Shot; Beath Handicapped By Inability To Keep Out Of Rough

BY WESTA
(Sketches by the writer)

Mr. J. B. Ferrier won the championship of the Shanghai Golf club at the Kiangwan course Sunday by defeating Mr. C. T. Beath. The outcome of the match was as expected, as it was pretty generally felt before play started that the playing through champion would repeat.

Mr. Ferrier played a game that was nothing short of astonishing, considering the weather conditions, and one that stamps him as a player who undoubtably could hold his own in any golfing company in the world.

The Kiangwan course was swept by a cold, raw wind on Sunday that at times approached the dimensions of a gale. It was so cold, in fact, that the gallery, heavily bundled in overcoats, mittens and mufflers, were at a loss to understand how the two players could hold a golf club in their hands at all, let alone hit a ball with one.

Winner And Runner Up

J. B. FERRIER (RIGHT) AND C. T. BEATH

And yet Mr. Ferrier played the course in the remarkably low medal score of 81, with but two approximations—allowing one stroke for a conceded putt on the seventh green that was but a few inches from the hole when Mr. Beath knocked it away, and two strokes on the fifth green when the ball was but five or six feet from the pin.

Aside from the score, however, the thing about Mr. Ferrier's game that was impressive was the manner in which he played the wind, or properly, the gale. All day he kept his shots low, in some instances but a few feet off the ground. And at the same time he kept them straight. Either is a task to occupy the full time and attention of the best golfer, and nothing shows the real class of this player so much as the fact that he accomplished both of those results.

SOME LONG WALLOPS

On the holes where the wind was behind him Mr. Ferrier laced out some of the most tremendous drives ever seen at Kiangwan, or anywhere else for that matter. Thus on the twelfth (280 yards) he drove the green, and on the long fourteenth, he hit one that carried clear to the last of the diagonal bunkers—a drive of well over 300 yards. His second on this hole was not so good, else he would have been over the green.

Perhaps Mr. Ferrier's best hole of the day was the thirteenth. Here the gale was directly in his face, and so stiff that it was all one could do to stand up against it. From the tee on this hole he cracked one that skimmed like a bullet, barely ten feet over the cross bunker, and rolled 75 yards beyond before it stopped. His brassie second, the same kind of a shot, carried him to within easy pitching distance of the green. His approach putt was dead to the pin, and he was down in five—a Bogey against a wind that a rifle bullet would have had difficulty in cutting through.

The champion's worst holes, strangely enough, were shorts—the fifteenth and seventeenth. On the fifteenth he failed to reach the punch bowl, and went clear over on his second. On the seventeenth he was badly off the line into the rough at the right, and wasted one trying to get out. Finally on in three he took two putts to get down for a five.

PLAYED STRAIGHT GAME

Reference to the accompanying sketches—on which each shot of the first eighteen holes is diagramed—reveals that for the most part Mr. Ferrier was on the fairways, and that Mr. Beath did much of his playing in the rough. And to make matters worse for the runner up, it seemed that every time he got into trouble he got into it badly. Absolutely none of the breaks was with him. If he went into a bunker he generally was right against the bank, in a position from which it was impossible to extract himself without wasting a shot.

Mr. Beath was handicapped by inability to keep his ball low. And in that wind Sunday a high ball was fatal, for the gale simply took hold of it and carried it off the course. On the short fifteenth, for instance, Mr. Beath used a wooden club and sliced slightly. That is, his ball was slicing slightly when it left the tee. But when the wind got through with it, it had sliced over to the far side of the eighth fairway.

Mr. Beath, despite his defeat, played some fine shots. On the second, for instance, he got a fine drive, holding his ball straight despite the cross wind, and followed it with an iron to within four feet of the pin. And take it from one who bucked that gale in the wake of the players, when you are putting for a three on the second under Sunday's conditions you are shooting real golf.

CUP IS PRESENTED

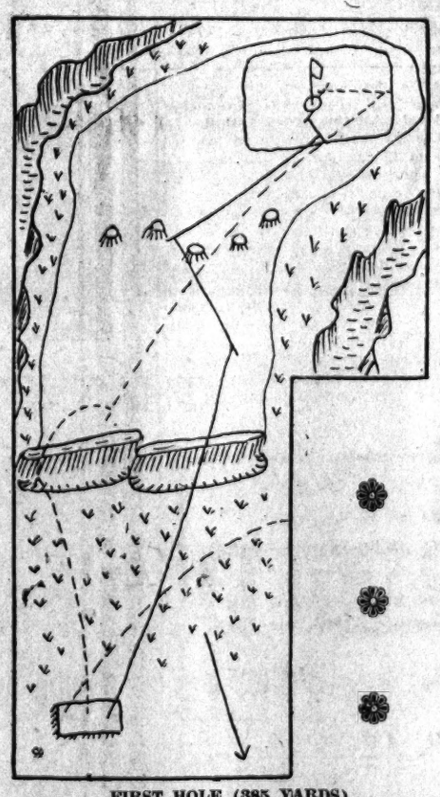
Following the completion of the match former Captain MacDonald, acting for Dr. Ivy, who was absent on account of illness, presented the beautiful championship cup to Mr. Ferrier in a neat speech in which he complimented the champion upon his fine achievement. Mr. MacDonald, who acted as referee of the match Sunday, also complimented Mr. Beath upon his fine sportsmanship, and the club as a whole for having such fine players in its membership. Mr. MacDonald expressed the hope, which was heartily seconded by those who heard him, that at some future time Mr. Ferrier might find himself playing in the big championship matches of England and America.

Following Mr. MacDonald's address Mr. Ferrier, Mr. Beath and Mr. O. Crewe-Read, who is leaving Shanghai today, made short talks.

Following will be found an account of the championship play by holes: (In the sketches the direction of the wind is indicated by an arrow. Clear spaces are the fairways; other, rough. Ferrier's shots are shown by straight lines Beath's by dotted lines.)

FIRST HOLE (385 YARDS)

Ferrier's drive was low and straight. His second was short, just past the chocolate drops. He was on in three and down in two for five. Beath drove one into the race track, and then put one into the cross bunker. He was out in three and a long brassie carried him into the rough at the right. He was on in four and down in two for a six. Ferrier one up.



FIRST HOLE (385 YARDS)

SECOND HOLE (395 YARDS)

Ferrier was in the rough at the right beyond the second bunker. A beautiful iron took him to the edge of the green, from where he got down in three. Beath followed a fine, straight drive with a fine iron to within four feet of the pin, and was down in two. All even.

THIRD HOLE (257 YARDS)

Beath dubbed to the left, and shot across the fairway trying to get back. He was still short on his third, and was finally down in six. Ferrier's drive hopped the bunker and rolled into the rough at the left. His iron out was a beauty, just short of the green, from where he got down in three. Ferrier one up.

FOURTH HOLE (235 YARDS)

Ferrier's drive was not very good, stopping just over the ditch beyond the bunker. He was nicely on in two, dead on his approach putt, and down in four. Beath barely got past the bunker on his drive, short on his second, rolled past on his third and missed coming back. Ferrier two up.

FIFTH HOLE (474 YARDS)

Ferrier laced out a corker almost to the second bunker, and was on the edge in two, and within six feet of the pin on his third. Beach caught the bunker on his drive, pitched out short, and then drove into the far bunker. He wasted one trying to get out, and finally picked up. Ferrier three up.

SIXTH HOLE (154 YARDS)

Ferrier was beautifull on with

Army Eleven Beats Navy In Great Gridiron Battle; Field Goal Decides Issue

(CHINA PRESS SPECIAL)

Franklin Field, Philadelphia, November 25.—The Army triumphed over the Navy this afternoon in one of the greatest gridiron contests in history, West Point winning by a score of 17-14 after being outplayed by the Midshipmen in the first half. A brilliant assemblage saw the gruelling battle, high dignitaries of the Nation watching the game from decorated boxes in the midst of the cheering sections.

Between the halves, Vice-President Calvin Coolidge, Secretary of War John W. Weeks, Secretary of the Navy Edwin S. Denby, and General John J. Pershing met in the center of the gridiron and shook hands.

The customary Army-Navy "stunts" were performed at half time. West Point rooters bringing a cannon on the field and blowing up a miniature battleship while the Navy cheering section roared: "We won't give up the ship."

Navy hopes ran high early in the game but the wonderful West Point team came through from behind in wonderful style. At the beginning of the last period the Army had a three-point lead, a wonderful goal from placement by Garbisch, the West Point center counting for the margin.

DETAILED STORY

A detailed story of the game follows:

The Army cadets, 1,250 strong, marched on the field at 1:50 p.m., led by a grey-clad mule that seemed to be scared almost to death by the crashing of the big brass bands and the terrific cheering that greeted the upstanding West Pointers as they marched around the field and then took seats in the South stand.

A few minutes later the big delegation of blue clad middies entered the great arena from another gate amid the plaudits of the gathered thousands who stood and watched the inspiring march of the 2,400 Annapolis men as they encircled the gridiron. The Navy rooters took seats in the North stand. The Annapolis mascot, the goat, was the last to appear and he was greeted with cheers as he was led in by two Plebes.

Both football teams came on the field at 2:24 o'clock and were loudly cheered. After a few signals, both teams engaged in kicking practice, the punters studying the high wind and the currents.

ARMY WINS TOSS

The Army won the toss and chose to defend the East goal with the wind at the bank of the West Point kicker.

The high wind blew the ball off the tee several times before the kickoff, the game starting at 2:32 o'clock.

The Navy left half got the ball on his twenty-yard line and brought it back six yards before White downed him. After two line plunges, Barchet shot a forward pass to Cullen, who went to his 46 yard line. In straight plunges McKee, the Navy left half, took the pigskin to the Army 32 yard line where Quarterback Conroy tried a place kick from the 38 yard mark. The boot was poor and Smythe, the West Point quarter, brought the ball back to his own thirty yard line.

SECOND KICK WILD

Unable to gain through the Navy line, Wood punted to the Annapolis 40 yard mark. On the second play, the Navy fumbled and Goodman, the Army left tackle, recovered, while the West Point cheering section let out a roar. The fumble was on the Navy thirty yard line. Wood made first down and two rushes got eight yards more, the Navy holding on the third attempt. Smythe called for another placement kick, Garbisch, the center going back for the try. The boot went wild, the ball going for a touchback and play being resumed on the twenty yard line.

Barchet hit the line for a short gain and then threw a forward pass to Parr who went clear to the Army 48 yard line as the whistle sounded for the end of the first quarter. Army, 0. Navy, 0.

NAVY SCORES FIRST

After two line plunges and a grounded forward pass, Barchet to McKee, the Navy lost the ball on downs, the first time in the game. The Army immediately kicked, the punt going to the 47 yard line. On the first play Cullem, the Navy right half, threw a forward pass to Barchet, who sprinted to the Army 34 yard line before he was downed.

Two rushes followed. Then McGee uncorked a long forward pass to Taylor, the right end, which brought the ball to within 20 yards of the Army goal. McKee was then given the ball and aided by brilliant interference skirted the end for the remainder of the distance and went over for a touchdown. Barchet added a point by a goal from placement. Navy, 7, Army, 0.

The Army kicked off and the Navy returned the ball to the 27 yard line but could not gain. Barchet punting to Smythe, who caught the ball in midfield. The Army quarterback made a sensational run to the Navy 40 yard line. The Army was penalised five yards for offside on the next play, the first penalty of the game.

GOAL FROM FIELD

Garbisch, the Army center then kicked a beautiful placement goal from the forty yard line, the ball going directly between the uprights and high over the cross bar. The boot was good for a least 55 yards. Navy, 7, Army, 3

Garbisch kicked off to Barchet who ran the ball to his own 27 yard line. Conroy made first down bringing the ball to the Navy 40 yard mark but after making four yards more, Annapolis lost five because of an offside penalty. Cullen punting to Smythe. The Army quarter immediately returned the punt to the Navy forty yard line. Smythe made four through the line and then tossed a seventeen-yard forward pass to Wood.

The Navy then held like grim death, taking the ball from the West Pointers on the Annapolis ten yard line. On the second play, the Navy was penalised 15 yards for holding and here was the ball on the Navy seven yard line, 25 yards to go for first down and but 30 seconds left to play.

CLOSE SHAVE FOR NAVY

The ball was taken to the 26 yard line on the first plunge and then Smythe tossed a forward pass to White who failed to make the necessary distance, the West Pointers taking the ball within the shadow of the Navy goalposts while the Army cheering section pleaded for a touchdown. Wood crashed through for three yards, the whistle blew for the end of the period and the Navy cheering section breathed a sigh of relief. Navy, 7, Army, 3.

The Navy kicked off to Smythe, who was thrown on the Army 27 yard line. One try at the line netted no gain and West Point punted to the Navy 25 yard line. The Navy failed to penetrate the cadet line and punted to Smythe who ran the ball back to the Navy 30 yard line. Smythe threw a forward pass to White and the latter tore clear to the two yard line, where he was forced out of bounds. The Navy line held on the first play but on the next, Lawrence, who went in to take Smythe's place at quarterback, took the ball over for a touchdown. Garbisch added the extra point. Army, 10, Navy, 7.

The Navy kicked off and an exchange of punts followed. The Navy had the ball in midfield when Fullback Barchet, who had been a tower of strength, was injured and left the game, Norris taking his place. Norris took the ball to the Army's 40 yard line and then the Navy was held for downs. The Army immediately punted but the high wind took the ball over the Navy goal line for a touchback. The score at the end of the third period was Army, 10, Navy, 7.

The Navy made first down and with the ball on the 41 yard line, a forward pass was grounded. Annapolis was forced to punt and the Army halfback dropped the ball but West Point recovered on its own 22 yard line. Two plunges and a fumble and the Navy had the ball on the Army ten yard line. A forward pass failed. The Army defense held twice and Conroy was given the ball for the final desperate try for the touchdown. The Army line wavered, then held and Conroy was down inches away from the touchdown. The Army line had held. It was the Army ball. A punt sent the ball out of danger. Seldom has a football crowd in America been treated to such a thriller.

THE LAST PERIOD

The Navy was not to be denied. A series of rushes, two beautifully executed forward passes, sterling play by Norris and Wood and then Conroy smashed through to a touchdown. And Conroy made the extra point for the Navy by a placement kick, which he got away an instant before he was hurled to the ground by the Army forwards. The score is now Navy, 14, Army, 10.

Then came a triumphant march down the field following the kick-off when the Navy got the ball on its own thirty-three yard line and could not gain. Norris uncorked a wonderful punt which Smythe caught in the shadow of his own goal posts and ran back 11 yards. The Army tried everything and it worked. Forward passes, trick plays, straight line plunging and the Army scored a touchdown, giving the Navy a two-point lead. And Smythe was the man who added the extra point that meant Army, 17, Navy, 14.

Harvard Eleven Triumphs Over Yale; Score Is 10-3

(By the United Press)

Yale Bowl, New Haven, Connecticut, November 25.—Harvard's big team, which bowed to Princeton last Saturday, outplayed Yale in every department of the game here this afternoon and crushed the Blue eleven by a score of 10-3. The ball was in Yale territory two-thirds of the time.

Trounced by Princeton and Brown, the Crimson staged a comeback today and Yale was beaten before 63,000 people, which taxed the capacity of the big Bowl.

on in three but failed on his try for a four. Ferrier twelve up.

21ST HOLE (237 YARDS)

Ferrier sliced to the rough and was short on his out. He was six feet from the cup on his run-up third, and down in four. Beath also sliced from the tee and dubbed his second. He was out in three, on in four and missed on his try for a five. Ferrier thirteen up.

22ND HOLE (235 YARDS)

Ferrier had a fine drive to the foot of the green, got close on is second but missed his try for a three, taking four. Beath reached the edge of the green with his drive, was near the pin on his second, but missed his try for a three, thus halving the hole Ferrier thirteen up.

23RD HOLE (474 YARDS)

Ferrier got a whale of a drive of nearly three hundred yards. He was on in two, dead in three and down in four. Beath had a good drive down the middle and was near the green on his second. He got on in three and well up on his fourth. Ferrier was away, and holed out, ending the match. Ferrier fourteen up and thirteen to play.

CALIFORNIA WINS FROM STANFORD IN ANNUAL CLASH

Andy Smith's Bears Earn Right To Play Penn State; Score 28-0

(By the United Press)

San Francisco, November 25.—Andy Smith's University of California eleven had little difficulty in trimming Leland Stanford this afternoon and earning the right to represent the Far West in the Inter-Sectional clash on New Year's Day with Penn State. The Bears were on the long end of a 28-0 score.

Arrest Youth For Attempt To Kill Japanese Premier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Nov. 27.—The Hochi reports the arrest of a youth who, the police assert, planned an attempt on the life of the ex-Premier, Viscount Takahashi, during a meeting at Utsunomiya.

A Favorite Rub Down

The golfer, the foot ball player and the all round athlete know the value of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It is just the thing for a rub down after a hard game. All soreness disappears like magic and sprains and swellings are cured in one-third less time than by any other treatment.

Commencing

December 9th.

The magic pasteboards below cost over a million dollars—but they'll open the gate of your dreams to you—take you to the world's palace of delights—show you the seamy side of the glittering surface you could not penetrate on a personal visit that cost you thousands of dollars—the fascinating—dazzling—alluring magnet of folly and fashion—"The Sign of the Seven Sins"—Monte Carlo—the fool's paradise.

More than $6000 was spent on production for every minute shown on the screen.

This charming guide will breakfast with you on a sun-drenched terrace overlooking a sapphire sea—she will tell you that glorious woman is an adventuress—that handsome man a swindler—that couple are nobodies—just rich Americans spending money—that the Princess just beyond is under suspicion—but that she won 50,000 francs at the Casino—that the Count is a charming man—that husbands are stupid—

Below is von Stroheim—who wrote directed, is featured in, and spent over a million dollars to produce the most beautiful picture the mind of man ever conceived—and all for your entertainment—You will see him at his best as a gay and gallant nobleman—at his worst as a thief—a coward—preying on the virtue and wealth of women—as a great actor—a superb director.

Pictorially surpasses anything ever achieved in pictures—dramatically grips, fascinates and enthralls you—a complex magnificence that astounds you—a direct simplicity that drowns you in a sea of emotions.

HOUSE PETERS IN "The STORM" A UNIVERSAL JEWEL

"THE STORM"

From Geo. Broadhurst's Sensational stage success by Langdon McCormick directed by Reginald Barker

A Superb Example of Pictorial Realism.

One of the finest pieces of motion picture art that has ever been seen on the screen.

STARRING

VIRGINIA VALLI, MATT MOORE

and an all star cast of the most popular actors

Here is a picture for you! You have never seen such a story as this adaptation. It towers over anything of its kind; it is the humanity, the reality, the crashing smashing drama of eternal romance, vivified to the highest degree.

There are three tense pitches of climax which gives this picture its rugged strength..... the ultimate climax reveals a huge colorful forest fire, the like of which has never been seen before.

WHAT MAKES THIS PICTURE GREAT?

It is excellently directed—the story is simplicity itself—the backgrounds are vital and vivid, and finally the acting is excellent.

BOY CAPTIVE OF BANDITS IS NOW SET FREE

Rolf Borg—Breen, Falls Ill And Is Left With Christian Family

(China Press Service)

Hankow, Nov. 28.—The Central China Post says that no further news with regard to the activities of the bandits in South West Honan was obtainable, but the news which it published concerning the capture of the three cities, Sinyeh, Tanghsien and Nanyangfu, has been confirmed by messages received from two other sources.

A telegram received from Siangyang, about the safety of which city grave anxiety was felt a day or two ago, reports that the situation there is normal.

News is now to hand that the five-years-old boy, Rolf Borg-Breen, fell sick while with his father in the hands of the brigands, and was left by them with a Christian family at a place some distance from Sinyang-chow. This family sent in an intimation of the above fact, and two missionaries have already gone out to bring the little boy back into safety.

According to a later report a wire has been received from Mr. Nelson at Sinyangchow saying that a party had been to the place where the boy Rolf was alleged to have been left; but no trace could be found of him there.

It is stated in the local native press that the United Chinese Chambers of Commerce, now in session here, are arranging to have an interview with the Committee appointed by the recent meeting of foreign residents which was called in connection with the bandit question in Honan. The idea is that the Chinese and the foreigners should unite in an effort to induce the Government to suppress the Honan bandits at an early date.

British Minister Tries To Intervene For Greek Cabinet

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, Nov. 25.—The Cabinet resigned in consequence of a refusal by M. Zaimis to assume the Premiership following a demarche by the British Minister, Mr. S. O. Lindley, urging the non-execution of the former Ministers and others on trial on the charge of treason if they were sentenced to death.

M. Gonatas is forming a Cabinet with members of the Revolutionary Committee. Reuter's correspondent learns that Mr. Lindley will break off relations and leave Greece if the executions are carried out.

Food Controller Of Germany Absolved

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Nov. 25.—The Reichstag adjourned until Dec. 12 after a statement by Herr Cuno to the effect that that an investigation by the Cabinet had absolved Herr Mueller, the Minister of Food, from the charge of a treasonable attitude with regard to the Rhineland, which was made by the Socialists against him.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—In the Reichstag today there was a sensational attack by the Socialists on Herr Mueller, the Minister of Food, whom they accused of complicity in the separatist movement in the Rhineland. Herr Muller repudiated the accusation. The Chancellor promised an investigation. Herr Mueller subsequently resigned.

Drag Socony Into Ship Subsidy Fight

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 26.—The general debate in the House of Representatives on the Ship Subsidy Bill was closed yesterday but its opponents intend to continue the fight next week by proposing various amendments.

Mr. Hardy, of the Merchant Marine Committee, in the course of a speech said that under the Bill the Standard Oil Company could collect Government money for carrying its own products in its own tanks to Shanghai where it could sell oil worth 70 cents a barrel here for $7 a barrel.

JAPAN'S POLICY ON FINANCE IS TOLD BANKERS

Minister Tells Gathering Of Retrenchments In Many Depts.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Nov. 25.—Addressing the annual meeting of the Banker's Association at Osaka today Mr. Ichiki, Minister of Finance, outlined the Government financial policy. He said that the budget appropriations had been readjusted, and the Government had retrenched not only in armaments but in the general administrative expenditures and had also reduced to a minimum the flotation of loans. The Minister of Finance asked the bankers to refrain from supplying funds to speculators.

Mr. Inouye, Governor of the Bank of Japan, reviewing economic conditions said that following the Government policy of financial retrenchment and administrative readjustment the people were beginning to realise the necessity for great economy and hard work. The tendency towards retrenchment was resulting in business depression.

Turnovers everywhere were decreasing and prices were declining slowly but steadily. Mr. Inouye forecasted that the period of retrenchment would be prolonged because there was considerable room for readjustment. He said that prices were still too high, and likewise wages. Individuals and corporations had not yet overcome the habit of reckless spending. Wealth had been accumulated during the boom and was still enabling individuals to indulge in luxuries and corporations to pay large dividends though there were no earnings. Mr. Inoyue urged the bankers to pursue a policy of retrenchment.

Smallpox Now Is Alarming Britain

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 25.—The Ministry of Health is insisting on the necessity of vaccination owing to reports of smallpox of a virulent type in various parts of the country. Since the first case was discovered at Poplar on October 27, fifty-seven cases have been admitted to hospital in London, including fifty-two from Poplar. There have been 17 deaths.

A telegram from Montreal states that a liner from England has been quarantined as an English passenger on board was suffering from smallpox.

Share Buying Not Gambling, Court Decides

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Nov. 25.—The Chief Justice has granted a petition brought by two local sharebrokers for a receiving order against Mr. Samuel Greenfield, whose total indebtedness is stated to amount to $130,000 in respect of transactions in China Provident shares.

Mr. Greenfield contended that the debts were purely gambling debts of an illegal nature and irrecoverable by law.

WHY PROBE THE POPPY WHEN IT IS UNBLOOMING

Anti-Opium Association Has Pointed Out Futility Of New Plan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 24.—The International Anti-Opium Association, which published a few weeks ago the invitation of the Ministry of the Interior to appoint delegates to accompany the Government Poppy Cultivation Investigating Commissioners, pointed out the inadvisability of making investigations in the eight Northern Provinces at a time when the poppy harvest had been reaped.

Representatives of the Association recently had an interview with Dr. Wellington Koo on the subject, and he emphatically stated that the investigation would not take place until the poppy was in bloom, a procedure in fulfillment of the undertaking of the Chinese Delegation at the Washington Conference. The Association has now received the following communication from the Ministry of the Interior which confirms the statement of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and postpones the investigations until the time when the poppy would be in bloom:

"The Ministry of the Interior has received instructions from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs emphasising the fact that the investigation of poppy cultivation should not take place until the poppy is in bloom. As the climate of the various provinces differs so the opium harvest is reared at different periods. Furthermore, as the distance to each province is not the same and one Commissioner is appointed for two provinces, it might result that during the investigations in one province the harvest would be completed in the other.

Thus the inspection of the second province would be useless. It is obvious therefore, that adequate schemes must be devised to meet all aspects of the case. In Sinkiang, Kansu, Shensi, Suaiyuan and Jehol the poppy will be in bloom between the fifth and the sixth months, while in Anhui, Hupeh and Fukien bloom will take place between the second and third months (old Calendar). If the investigations be made in the periods and places mentioned above the true conditions of poppy cultivation can be discovered, and the required results obtained.

"The Commissioners have been instructed by this Ministry that the investigations must be made in accordance with the times and places mentioned above while the Commissioners appointed to make their investigations in two provinces have been instructed to appoint Commissioners to take one province each off their hands."

CHITA IS HAPPY OVER JUNCTURE WITH SOVIETS

Former Republic Divided Into Five Districts For Administration

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Chita, Nov. 15.—The National Assembly carried with much enthusiasm the resolution, offering to Moscow the territory hitherto known as the Far Eastern Republic.

On Monday, when the Assembly opened, little business was done save that the Council of Ministers intimated that as a result of certain changes which had recently taken place (meaning the occupation of the Vladivostok area), it no longer appeared necessary to prolong the existence of the Buffer State of the Far Eastern Republic, that the entire country was in favor of closer relationship with Soviet Russia, and that consequently the National Assembly would, according to the Constitution, be asked to decide whether or not the Far Eastern Republic should be placed under Soviet administration.

Yesterday the Assembly met at 2 p.m. The streets surrounding the Ministry were crowded with troops and civilians, who cheered loudly the arrival of the various delegates. The issue was put before the Assembly and a Communist member moved the resolution. Speeches in support by representatives of all parties were made, much singing of the Internationale occasionally interrupting the proceedings, since everyone is compelled to stand up during the performance.

BAND INOPPORTUNE

A band was in attendance and its conductor chose very odd moments, usually when some member was speaking, to maintain the general enthusiasm. The session closed with the declaration, placing the Far Eastern Republic under Moscow and appointing a Revolutionary Committee, of which M. Kobazeff, the former President, is Chairman, to administer the new province.

As far as can be gathered, this territory will be split into five departments or districts, each to be run by a sub-Revolutionary Committee. These districts will be:

1.—Preibaikalski, headquarters Verkhne-Udinsk.
2.—Zabaikalski, Chita.
3.—Amurski, Blagoveschensk.
4.—Preamurski, Habarovsk.
5.—Premorski, Vladivostok.

The organisation, known as the Department of Outdoor Trade which has complete monopoly of all trade with Soviet Russia, will probably create its barrier at Manchuli instead of Verkhne-Udinsk and continue to exercise the functions which so far have succeeded in stifling trade with Siberia.

With the disappearance of the Far Eastern Republic the question of the Chinese Eastern Railway will have to receive instant attention since the connecting lines on either side of it are now "Red," and not, as formerly, "White" at the Vladivostok end and "Pink" at this.

EXPEDITION TO THIBET

A correspondent informs the London "Daily Telegraph" that in order to increase its influence in Central Asia, the Soviet Government is now preparing an expedition to Thibet. The avowed object of the expedition is scientific and geographical research. But as it will include several military topographers, and also graduates from the College for Eastern Propaganda in Moscow, one may have some doubts on this subject. At the head of the expedition is placed Kosloff, one of the most active companions of the Russian explorer Prjevalki. Kosloff is eminently suited for this work, because he has managed to maintain good personal relations with the Dalai Lama's court. These relations began in 1904, when Kosloff was sent by the Russian Geographical Society to welcome the Dalai Lama, who had taken refuge among the Buddhist Mongols on the Russian border when he fled from Sir Francis Younghusband's military expedition. In 1908 Kosloff met the Dalai Lama once more at the great Humbum monastery. Kosloff will be accompanied by an escort of Siberian Cossacks and of Kalmuks.

COMMISSION ON SHANTUNG WILL SPEED UP WORK

Seeks To Finish So Japan Can Hand Over By December 2

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 24.—While there are various important questions still to be settled by the Shantung Commission before its work is concluded, the members are making every effort to speed up their deliberations, and the hope is expressed that they will be brought to a successful close on December 2, the date fixed at Washington.

Meanwhile the Japanese Government is making preparations for handing over the territory on signature of the agreement. Mr. Yasseburo Mori, Consul-General at Tsinanfu, who is to be Consul-General at Tsingtao and has been staying in Peking for some time in connection with the negotiations, left with his staff this morning for Tsingtao to open the new Consulate-General there.

The Japanese police officials to replace the gendarmerie and troops hitherto maintained at Tsingtao have arrived there, and arrangements have been made for the arrival at Tsingtao on December 2 of the transports which are to carry away the Japanese troops and administrative officials.

It is stated that the Japanese Government would like to transfer the railway to China on the same date, though a further three months are allowed for this operation.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

November 27, 1922

Spot bar silver was up ⅛d and forward 1-16d. in London on Saturday. The New York price advanced to 64½ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 4501/4.

The only change in our official quotations here today was a rise in the Franc rate to 935. Our market throughout the morning was steady and quiet, when there were sellers of Sterling at 3s. 1⅞d. for November-December-January delivery and of Gold Dollars at 71⅛ November, 71¼ December and 71⅜ for forward delivery.

In the afternoon however, the market eased off considerably, speculators becoming quite strong buyers.

At the close there were sellers of Sterling at 3s. 1¾d. November and possibly December, with buyers at 3s. 1⅞d. There were sellers for January at 3s. 1⅞d. and buyers at 3s. 1¾d.

The best Gold Dollar sellers at the close were offering 70⅜ for any delivery up to China New Year, with buyers at 71. There were sellers of Yen at the close at 68⅝ and buyers at 68⅝.

In the afternoon banks were quoting 3s. 2⅝d. for Sterling bills, 72⅜ for Gold Dollar bills and 1030 for Franc bills.

China sold silver in London on Saturday and India bought. The market is reported as closing uncertain, New York report their market as easy with sellers at the official rate and no buyers.

Demand For Rubber Shares Follows Approval Of Stevenson Scheme

BY THE FINANCIAL EDITOR

The Stock Exchange in Shanghai witnessed a steady demand for rubber shares principally as a result of the approval of the British Colonial Office of the Stevenson scheme which has brought about a complete volte face for the rubber market. Buyers have been scrambling for rubber shares which have been difficult to obtain at anywhere near previously quoted prices. Consequently in the local share market there has prevailed an unwonted atmosphere of activity, many of the rubber shares being dealt in large quantities and at prices which mark a considerable improvement over previous quotations.

In the case of a good many companies the rise in share values is hardly justified, and this remark refers particularly to those estates that have large overdrafts to meet and deficits in their banking accounts. On the other hand, the commodity is now at a level which admits of a profit to a few companies, the latest quotation from London placing the raw material at one shilling 0¾d. per lb.

If rubber were to go up to 1s. 3d. per pound some of the companies would be able to distribute a dividend, but it must be distinctly understood that only those companies with cash balances and no overdrafts or deficits to make good could achieve such a goal. There are some estates that are not worried by high producing costs, while a few could boast of producing costs being down to as low as 7d. to 8d. per pound. It would be seen, therefore, that at even one shilling, they could earn enough to distribute a small dividend to the shareholders.

It may be that the Shanghai public will never learn to discriminate between the good rubber estates and the bad, that they will continue light-heartedly to stake their money on the wrong rubber horse, and that for one to expect anything tangible to result from one's persistent efforts in preaching the gospel of common sense indicates the possession of a mind steeped in impracticable optimism.

Although many details of the Stevenson scheme have to be explained, there seems a reasonable chance for rubber hovering round a shilling and more. Accordingly, no serious setback in the price of shares of the good rubber estates should be anticipated, of course so long as the price of the raw material does not go down. When the glamor of, even, say, one shilling rubber has worn off, doubtless there will be more time to study intrinsic values and to consider as to how far quotations may have discounted benefits to accrue in relation to possible increased expense resulting from decreased production.

It must not be forgotten that restriction is imposed on those Shanghai rubber companies that have their estates in British Malaya but those that have their estates in Java are not bound by any agreement. It is interesting to mention this, in view of the wild hopes that have been set up by those supporting rubber shares as good investments at the present stage. It is true that British Malaya produces some 57½ percent of the rubber output of the world. Restriction by Malaya alone does not make the outlook absolutely roseate. There is a large percentage of the world's rubber grown in the Netherlands East Indies and elsewhere that will not be controlled, and a fairly large quantity of wild rubber, and also very large stocks of surplus rubber.

The basis of compulsory restriction, is as we all know, to make supply and demand balance one another, and the scheme would have proved an instantaneous success were the Dutch East Indies induced to throw in their support. Labor is reputed to be cheaper in Java than in British Malaya and with nothing to hamper the Java estates to produce as much rubber as they can and no export duty on the commodity it is quite reasonable to expect those companies having their properties in that part of the world to do a little better than the rest, provided, of course, the price of the raw material does not slide down.

It is a debatable question whether estates situated in Java and Sumatra are in a more favorable position if it comes to a war of the survival of the fittest. The British and Dutch control 97 percent of the total production of plantation rubber, and if the Dutch could have been induced to throw in their lot with the British-owned plantations the outlook for higher prices for rubber and a resuscitation of most of the rubber estates would indeed have been bright. That, in short, is the fly in the ointment. The British companies, in other words, have restricted rubber output to the benefit of the Dutch companies, which will enjoy the better prices and sell greater quantities.

When we consider the large capital that Shanghai has invested in rubber companies, it is hardly surprising that so much interest is being taken in the developments of the rubber situation. The rubber companies on the Shanghai Stock Exchange are capitalised at 15 million taels. In 1917, when rubber stood at about two shillings and ten pence per pound, the Shanghai rubber companies distributed dividends to the tune of about three million taels. Fortunes have been lost in rubber by Shanghai residents many of whom brought these stocks at ridiculously high figures. It is therefore not a wonder that a good few of them are today fighting shy of such investments. There have been many hard-hit shareholders who are nursing their script in the hope that they will be able to realise their money. The dividends that the Shanghai companies distributed in the prosperous years will never again be witnessed for many a day.

The rise in the local share market has been fast and furious, and it behoves investors in rubber shares to exercise caution. The movements in rubber stocks, following the Stevenson report, only serve to emphasise the folly of cut-throat competition by unorganised producers, and it is a great pity that a year ago the hundreds of rubber companies in British Malaya and Ceylon did not realise the fatuous altruism of producing cheap rubber for the benefit of rich manufacturers.

A stronger tone was apparent this week in the London rubber market, although buying is still weak and prices unsteady. The better tone is due to the fact that American buyers are finding it difficult to buy in the Singapore market now, where stock is growing less and prices higher as a result of the newly imposed export tax. A few buyers are already enquiring in the Kobe market for raw rubber.

Plan Big Convention Of School Officials

(China Press Service)

Cleveland, November 20.—School Superintendents and leading educators from all parts of the United States are expected here Feb. 26 to March 1 for the 1923 Convention of the Department of Superintendents of the National Educational Association.

In addition to the general sessions of the convention, 115 separate daily meetings of committees and subsidiary organizations will be held, it is announced.

"The department is the most representative of and one of the more important educational groups in the country," A. J. Kennedy, Convention Manager, states. "It is virtually the backbone of the educational system."

The various subsidiary organizations include deans of women, professors of various subjects and semi-educational organizations.

NOTICE

Consumers are recommended, during the winter months, to close at night the stopcock inside their houses, and to empty the cold water piping by opening all the cold water taps in order to minimise the danger of pipes and fittings being burst by frost with consequent damage to walls and furniture.

The Company is at all times prepared to show consumers the stopcock referred to.

The Company wishes it to be clearly understood that in the event of any damage to the pipes and/or fittings due to frost or any other cause, the cost of repairing same will be charged to the consumer.

Under no conditions must a tap or taps be allowed to run to waste, and consumers are reminded that, under the terms and conditions of contract signed by them, the Company has power, in the event of water being so wasted, to discontinue the supply without notice.

The Associated Press

SHANGHAI newspapermen, Chinese, British and American are busy this week entertaining and making welcome one of the most distinguished members of their profession, Mr. Frank B. Noyes, President of the Associated Press and Publisher of The Washington Star. Mr. Noyes is looking into the news situation in China and his visit naturally is resulting in a more or less volcanic outpouring of thought on the subject.

Newspapers in China do not get all the news they should get, nor do they always get it in the form most to be desired. It is a subject of constant and keen interest among newspapermen: it is one that should engage the interest of every newspaper reader.

The news problem that is presented in China has been solved in America by the Associated Press a co-operative news-gathering organisation of 1,300 newspapers representing a total daily circulation of about 45,000,000 readers. These newspapers and their readers represent every phase of American life and thought. Each newspaper in the association contributes all its news to all the other members.

The association under its laws and regulations can make no profit and pay no dividend. Its duty solely is to distribute accurate information to the American public. It seeks to tell every day just what has happened. It cannot favor the Republicans or the Democrats, the prohibitionists or the antis, for its membership is made up of all of these. It is without bias and could no more be guilty of propaganda than it could of treason. It does not support the government and it is not against the government. It tells merely what the government does. Accuracy is its one anchor.

Therefore, after long years of trial, the newspapermen and their readers in America have come to place supreme dependence for their information in the hands of the Associated Press. There are hundreds of editors in America who await confirmation from the Associated Press before using stories sent in by their own correspondents.

What is the thought that occurs here? What is the point for the average reader to consider? Probably it is something like this: Public opinion rules the world today and public opinion cannot arrive at accurate decisions unless it is accurately informed. Democracies cannot exist unless they manage themselves and they cannot manage themselves unless they know what is going on and know it with certitude. This is something for our Chinese editors and publishers who are tussling like giants with the great problem of the future of China, to consider—the spreading of the exact facts among their readers, no matter what they themselves think. It is the performance of this public duty which has made The Associated Press America's greatest national institution. It sets forth the facts. Then the people, fully informed, can make their decisions. And it is as the creator and head of this great national institution that we join our fellow-craftsmen of Shanghai in greeting Mr. Noyes.

What Jesus Came To Do -:- A Lecture On Christian Science

Note: The following lecture on Christian Science was delivered to a large audience at Masonic Hall last evening. The lecturer was Charles J. Ohrenstein, C. S. B., a member of the Board of Lectureship who is passing through Shanghai on a world tour.

What Jesus came to do, what he taught, did, and lived, may well be taken as his mission, as the ideal of the prophets—the ideal Judaism—and most certainly, as absolute Christianity. What was this mission?

An ancient custom, still followed among the Jews, is that of honoring distinguished visitors by calling upon them to read from the Scriptures at services in the synagogue. This honor was conferred on Jesus, when at the beginning of his ministry he visited his home in Nazareth. In responding to it, he turned to the book of Esaias and read: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the gospel (good news) to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight of the blind to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

At another time he announced that he came to fulfil the law and the prophets; and again that he came "to bear witness unto the truth." He also said, "I have come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly;" and defining life he said, "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou has sent." This may be said to be a summary of Jesus' mission, given in his own words. The statement is plain, simple, direct, and definite. There is not a word in it that could in any way mislead, be misunderstood or twisted to mean anything else.

Jesus came to preach the gospel, or good news to the poor. Did this mean that they should remain poor? He came to heal, to liberate, to destroy the operations of evil of every kind in human experience, to confer abundant life as a result of the knowledge of God which he came to teach mankind, to usher in an era acceptable to God in which God should be accorded all power and reign over all absolutely and completely. Did he fulfill this mission?

Jesus preached very little, but did a great deal. The gospels show this. From boyhood he was about his Father's business but he preached only one sermon of which any record has come down to us. This business consisted of teaching by example as well as by precept what God is, what God does, and how God does what He does. In providing the wine at the marriage feast in Cana, the tax money in the draft of fishes, in feeding the multitudes, he showed that God provides for the most simple and common needs. In healing a few sick people in Nazareth, the nobleman's son of a fever, the case of dropsy recorded in Luke, he showed that spiritual means should be sought and applied not only in extreme cases but in minor ailments. In restoring sight to the blind, speech to the dumb, hearing to the deaf, in healing leprosy, epilepsy, the withered hand, paralysis, and dementia of various kinds, he showed that God "healeth all thy diseases," and that none are incurable to Him. In loosing the woman from the evil which had bound her many years, and the multitudes from sins of all kinds, he showed the emancipating power of God. In disappearing in the midst of multitudes, entering through closed doors, stilling the storm, and walking upon the water, he showed the unreality of matter and of material forces; in raising the ruler's daughter, the widow's son, and Lazarus from the grave, he showed that God does give life, and that He gives it abundantly.

JESUS' WORKS

Science is defined as the "knowledge of principles and causes." Now, if Jesus did the works which have been cited—and that he did them is attested by those who have been looked upon as the best and most honest of men, men who witnessed them—did he do them through ignorance or mere belief in something, or did he do them because of a specific, accurate, and demonstrable knowledge of their underlying Principle or cause? No rational being would for a moment claim that they were done through anything but such knowledge; and if they were thus wrought through an exact knowledge or science, applied by Jesus Christ, then were they not wrought through his—that is through the Christian, or Christian Science?

Jesus did his marvelous works because of his knowledge of their underlying Principle or cause. It will be admitted that this knowledge was the knowledge of God, the knowledge of man and of man's relation to God, which Jesus came to teach mankind. The question that occurs very naturally at this point is, What is God?

PREVALENT IDEA OF GOD

All of us when visiting curio shops or museums have seen grotesque images that probably at some time served as objects of heathen worship. All of us, too, have probably viewed these idols with a mingling of curiosity, pity for those who prayed to such things, and incredulity that people who had the skill to carve such images should be so blinded and superstitious as to worship them. But have we differed from these people so very much after all?

While visiting an art museum some time ago, my attention was attracted to a picture, apparently by an old master. It was the figure of a venerable man with flowing white beard; he was clad in a robe and seated above the clouds. This picture portrayed not only the artist's but the popular idea of God in heaven. Heaven was above the clouds and God was an old man. This in the main is the picture which the older religions teachings have painted, not only on canvas but also in the thoughts of their adherents. The picture was but a reproduction of a world-wide misconception of God; and the Christian world, which scorns the heathen's idols, accepts and worships a misconception of God which exists only as a figment of the imagination, implores it for life and health and all things, and then wonders why these prayers do not avail. Is not the reason plain? Recognising this, do not we again have to ask, "What is God?"

TRUE IDEA OF GOD

In the tongues in which the Bible was originally written, two terms and their variants are mainly used to designate God. One means "strength" or power, and the other "the existing one," or plainly, the one and only existence. Other terms are used, but chiefly to avoid the use of the name of God in vain.

And going to that master Jew that master Christian, Jesus, what do we learn God to be? Something different from what was in the beginning? Not at all.

It should be remembered that Jesus did not write; he spoke. He spoke to his own people, the common people who heard him gladly; and he spoke to them in their own tongue. One of the very few instances preserved to us of what he said in that tongue is in the words which preceded his giving up the "ghost," the mere semblance of life, which he said he could lay down and could take on again, as he later proved. These words, all will remember, were, "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani?" which are translated, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" The word Eloi, which Jesus used, is the Old Testament Chaldean word for what in English is translated "my God." It means "my strength," or power, a meaning which is entirely devoid of anthropomorphism or corporeality. According to Jesus, then, God was his power, the power upon which he always relied, with which he accomplished everything. Nor did he leave us in the dark as to just what this power is. In speaking to his disciples he said, "Call no man your father upon the earth; for one is your Father, which is in heaven." In other words, there is only one cause or creator, and the universe including man is its product, the product of Eloi, the one only power.

Again speaking to the woman at the well, Jesus said, "God is Spirit," which would certainly mean that his power, the only power he ever used, the true cause of all, and consequently the cause of only that which is true, was Spirit or Mind, not matter of any kind or physique. And looking at the teachings of Jesus, looking at his words and at his works—words and works due to, impelled by, emanating from this Eloi or power, Spirit, Mind, or intelligence—are we not bound to conclude that this power, Spirit, Mind, was infinite Love, and that this divine Love was the very life of Jesus which nothing could destroy and which was able to raise him up at the last day? This one power then, this one Spirit, Soul, or Mind, this one existence or Life, this one reality or Truth, this one infinite Love, in a word, the divine Principle upon which Jesus always relied, with which he accomplished everything was all that constituted the Saviour who is the same yesterday, today, and forever, "with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning," who is with us always. This is just what Christian Science defines God to be, as will be seen from the following passage which may be found on page 465 in the Christian Science text-book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love."

MAN

Not only did Jesus illustrate, not only does Christian Science teach what God is, but in doing this Jesus illustrated and Christian Science teaches what man is.

Does not a father want his son to be like himself, and does not a son want to be like his father? So true is this, that right in the beginning we read that "God, the Father of us all," created man in his own image, . . . male and female created he them." In other words, He created them just like Himself. How then do we know what man is? Do we know it by corporeality, matter, stuff? If so, then the more corporeality, the more matter, the more stuff, the more man. But do not we rather know what man is, by what one manifests or expresses? Was it not the manifestation, the expression of the power, the Mind, the Spirit, the Life, the Truth, and the Love, which are altogether good, God, that made Jesus the best, the safest, the most efficient, the most able or powerful, the most godlike man that ever lived? Did it not make him so godlike that all Christendom has called him God, worshiped him as God? It has done this, too, notwithstanding the fact that Jesus rebuked the man for calling him, not God, but merely good, saying, "There is none good but one, that is, God." He did this because he recognised, as no one else ever has, that even all he manifested of God did not begin to express, but only indicated the infinite good that is God. This is shown by the fact that he expected not only the emulation of his example by his followers, but more—"He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do, because I go unto my Father;" because I illustrate the way, and show, as he again said that "the Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise."

And are not we all the sons and daughters of God, made in the image and likeness of God and, if so, is it not incumbent upon all of us to also show forth the intelligence, the power, and the love of God?

MAN AND MANKIND

We have seen what was the power, the Life, Mind, Love that animated, enlightened, impelled, and capacitated the man Jesus. We have seen that it was omnipotense, omniscience, God, and that it was the expression of God that made him the godlike and true man that he was. All of us also know what is the kind of power, life, mind, spirit, and love that are expressed or manifested by mankind or kind of men. All of us know that this power, life, mind, spirit, and love are all believed to inhere in the flesh, matter. Is not this true?

The man whom Jesus presented is spiritual, and spiritually minded, the real man. The man that humanity insists upon as the only real man—the kind of a man that is really no man, is fleshly or carnally minded. Yet Christianity teaches that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be." To be the one kind of man, then, is to be the son of God. To be the other kind of man is to be like those of whom Jesus spoke when he said, "Ye are of your father the devil," and the devil he called "a murderer," that which is destructive of us all, and "a liar," that in which there is no truth, or reality.

All Christians have certainly called Jesus their pattern and their guide; and he spoke of himself as "the way, the truth and the life." All Christians are also instructed, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." If this teaching be correct, should not every Christian claim for himself and for others the spiritual power intelligence, Life, Truth, and Love which constitute the one true God or good of all, infinite, eternal, indestructible, incapable of impairment, loss, or lack? And should not every one disclaim for himself and others a limited material power, mind life, truth, love, subject to disease, decay, and death? Can one be a Christian without claiming the former and disclaiming the latter?

THE BEGINNER

Now let us take one who is learning to know this Christ-way, and beginning to walk in it. What effect has all this upon him?

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

What Jesus Came To Do

terial organism with his life, health, strength, intelligence, and love all inside of him; that all that he is and all that he has is limited in every way—limited by heredity, by environment, and so on. Like every one else he knows it because he has been experiencing it. Is it strange if such a one as this is unprepared for any emergency, feels unsafe, is inefficient? Is it strange if he is at times discouraged, perhaps sick, dissipated? Now, the unheeded Christ, the spiritual idea of being, the Truth, comes to such a one in Christian Science. He hears, and hears for the first time with this new meaning, that God is the only and all power; that God is all his God; that God is Life—his life; that God, is Mind, Truth, Love, and that God, who is all this, is all his God. If he admits this— and slow or fast, if he ponders it, he is bound to admit it—will not everything that is right become more and more possible to him, and will not everything that is wrong become less and less dominant over him, and finally impossible to him? Will he not at once be better prepared for every demand upon him, feel more safe, more efficient than before? If he is fallen, will not this uplift him; if he is sorrowful, will not this comfort him; if he is discouraged, will not this encourage him; if he is sick, diseased, will not this ease him until it he is him; if he has been a failure, cannot he with this Christian, this right idea of being rise to success? Let me say that in thousands of instances all this has been demonstrated, and examples are not far to seek.

With your permission, may I not cite my own?

DEMONSTRATION

When Christian Science was first brought to my attention we had just lost our only child—under the care of the best physicians obtainable—with malignant diphtheria. In caring for the child, my wife, who had been a semi-invalid from early girlhood, contracted the disease. Her grief, together with the after results of the disease, made her condition most precarious. My mental state, because of our loss and because of my wife's ill health, can be easily imagined. In addition to this, I was suffering at the time, and had been suffering for a number of years, from a very trying, painful, and serious disease. How well prepared was I for the day's obligations; what safety did I feel in their performance; what efficiency did I possess? We were dragging out a weary existence.

Coming home one day after about a week's absence, I found my wife looking quite cheerful. Some color had risen to her cheek. She was looking as she had not looked for years. What had caused this change? Upon inquiry I found that a new acquaintance had loaned her a book; that she had been reading the book and that she attributed her improvement to the ideas which her reading had given her. What interested her, what benefited her, always interested me. I bought a copy of the book, read it, argued about it with our new acquaintance, tried to explain my wife's improvement upon other grounds. After about two weeks I took treatment, and learning something of the truth presented in that book, was healed. The name of that book is Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures. Its writer is Mary Baker Eddy. The truth that it presents is the truth of God, of man's relationship to God, and the truth of universal being. This truth is not a theory, but a Science capable of being practiced.

What I have just related occurred about twenty-five years ago. Since then Christian Science has done a great deal more for us, however. Throughout these years it has kept us in perfect health. As public practitioners of Christian Science for some twenty years or over, it has enabled us to respond to every legitimate demand made upon us—neither one of us, during all these years, being in any way incapacitated by sickness of any kind. Were this due to anything in ourselves, I would not, could not, speak of it. It has been wholly due to what Christian Science—of which we are such great beneficiaries—has taught us. Think of it—a woman who had not known a well day from early girlhood; a man who for several years had kept at work because of necessity and through sheer of will, to be so completely restored that to respond to every legitimate demand upon them became a joy! But our case is not exceptional; it is typical. The neighbors, friends, relatives of many of you here, can tell you their experiences with Christian Science, and I am sure that you will find those experiences quite similar to our's. Neither should their experiences with Christian after it has been indicated, as it has, what God is, what man is, and what man's relationship to God is. And I am sure that it does not seem so strange as it did that God should comfort the sorrowing, make the weak strong, heal the sick—yes, raise the dying and the dead. But perhaps it can be made still plainer.

HONESTY, CHIEF REQUISITE

You have all been taught to be truthful and honest, I am sure. If the temptation came to any of you to tell an untruth, or to take something that does not belong to you, this education, not something inherent in your heads or brains, would recall to you that you must not do so. I remember that as a very little boy, whenever I touched anything not mine, particularly at table, my mother very quietly said, "Heis!" meaning that taking things not mine would burn me. Throughout all the years that have gone by, when about to touch things not mine without permission, I have heard that word. Is it my brain? No; it is in my education. We are the children, of our education; much of it, the most important part of it not obtained in the schools, and it is our education that we constantly express, live out.

Now, suppose that we learn here and learn not only the letter, but become inbued with the spirit of what has been said, and so learn the truth that the kind of God that has been indicated here, is the only God there is; that only he is man—meaning man or woman, who is like this God, the reflection or image and likeness of God; suppose, when we have learned this even in the smallest degree, we always ask of this very primary education, What belongs to us, any one of us, as the image and likeness of God? Could not we thus get correct answers? What, for instance, belongs to the reflection of power, infinite power? Do powerlessness, inability, incapacity? What belongs to the reflection of Mind? Do lack of purpose, lack of will, ignorance of what he needs to know? What belongs to the reflection of divine Spirit, Truth, Love, Life? Do sensualism, untruthfulness, fear, distrust, aversion, hate, sickness, death? Would not the truth about what man is and what man has be just the opposite of all such claims, and did not Jesus say, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free?"

Can your image and likeness in the glass, that is, in the mirror, be something, do something, have something or take something that you are not, that you do not have or take? Can man, then, the image and likeness of God, be different from God? Can he be unprepared for anything, unsafe, inefficient, helpless; can he take a cold, sickness of any kind, grow old, decrepid, useless? Not unless God is and does these things. How truthful, how honest is one then who claims to be man, meaning man or woman, the image and likeness of God, and also claims to be man, meaning man or woman, the image and likeness of God, and also claims to be, to do, and to have everything contrary to God? Is such a one declaring the truth which alone makes free; is he obeying the commands "Thou shalt not bear false witness" and "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment?"

We all need assurance. . . . All will agree that if God is infinite and true, all claims contrary to Him must be untrue. Yet these claims, the education of generations upon generations, crowd upon us all, clamor for admission at every hand. They assure us at every impact, every contact, that there is danger; danger that we cannot, that nothing can ward off; that cold, heat, dry, wet, everything we breathe, drink, eat, touch smell, feel, everything we undertake to do, is fraught with danger, danger that we have not sufficient intelligence or power to cope with; that all things have power over us, not we the power over them which God gave us and constantly gives us. We all have plenty of assurance, practically our whole education is the assurance of struggle, of strife, of ultimate defeat, disaster, death.

How like "the gentle rain from heaven" dropping upon the dry earth beneath, comes the opposite assurance of Christian Science that "now are we the sons and daughters of God," even though this "doth not yet appear;" that as such now are we the reflections of God; that because of this now have we just what God has, all that is good and nothing else; that now is all good available to us through being truthful, honest, through not bearing false witness, not claiming and not taking what does not belong to us as the sons and daughters of God, so as heirs of God with Christ; by not entertaining, not appropriating in thought, not expressing in word or deed aught contrary to this new, this higher education.

THOUGHT PROCESSES

If God is the all-enabling power, and God is Mind, the operation of this power must be by way of ideas, thoughts. Who can straighten out his finger or bend it without thought dictating the action. Who can bend it when thought dictates to hold it straight? Try it. Will not the hand do kind things under the impulsion of loving thoughts; will it not do cruel things under the impulsion of contrary beliefs? Will it not do brave, powerful, steady, skillful, efficient things under the direction of right ideas, and trembling, weak, inefficient things under the impulsion of fear? All have experienced this. Is it not a common saying that one is paralysed with fear? Do not people die of fear? Does any part of the body not reached by thought do anything or feel any way? If it does, how do you know it without thought?

The schools are beginning to recognise, and in some degree to acknowledge, that in Christian Science a light has come into the world, but without recognising that it is all light, and that in it is no darkness at all. Theology is beginning to teach an incorporeal God, but not one who is the Spirit that is all Love, too pure to behold iniquity, evil of any kind, to cause it or to permit it. The healing arts are beginning to teach that mind is at least in part cause, but without recognising that Mind is God, good, so never the cause of ills of any kind but always the cause of restoration, and of health. They call that mind which in the largest part is but false education, suggestion, the ultimate cause of sin, sickness, death. But the human beliefs that still obscure cannot forever hide the true light which shines, and shines unto a perfect day when all shall be illuminated by it, and there shall be no darkness, ignorance, illusive suggestion, disease, fear, and so no sin, no disease, no death.

GOD'S THOUGHTS

In the book of Isaiah we read, "And the angel of His (God's) presence saved them."

We are also told that after Jesus had withstood being tempted by the devil, and all should now be able to see that the devil was just what Jesus called him —"a murderer," that which is destructive, and "a liar," that in which there is no truth—angels came and ministered unto him. What does this mean? Does it mean that corporeal beings with wings healed the people spoken of in the Bible, and ministered unto Jesus?

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mrs. Eddy, on page 581, we read: "Angels. God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect; the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and mortality."

Cannot all see how such angels could and did indeed heal the children of Israel, how they could and did minister unto Jesus; how they can heal you and me and everyone, and minister to us all? Have not all of you entertained just such angels, time and time again, unawares? Have not pure, spiritual intuitions, inspirations of goodness, come to you and to all, and have they not been helpful to you? Where did they come from; from your brain, or from anyone's brain? They came from Mind, the only true Mind, God, to inspire, to enlighten you, to bear you up, and to set you up on high. Have we all been inspired then? Of course we have. Have we always heeded these inspirations? That is the question. It is not uncommon to hear that some one is inspired by malice or hate, everyone is ready to credit this, but yet some one be said to be inspired by God, who is infinite power, intelligence, Life, Truth, and Love, and derision and reviling are sure to be his lot. Is not everyone inspired with Life? If not, how then does anyone live? Are not all inspired by Mind, Truth, Love? If not, how do you express intelligence, how is it that you are truthful, kind, loving? Does this surprise you? Then let me say that you were inspired before you ever breathed or saw the light of day, and that inspiration is the one essential of existence.

Everyone is most particular as to the air he breathes. No one without absolute necessity would for a moment breathe foul air. Everyone is most particular as to the food he eats, what raiment he puts on, and so forth. How much more particular should all be as to what they are inspired by; for whether the thought that comes to us be good or bad, it is one that comes to us, not one that originates with us, and sooner or later we are bound to express it. Is it pure, beautiful, good, true, the thought of health, of life, of immortality, of courage, and of love for all? If so, it comes from the one true source. Bid it welcome; let it abide with you, entertain it, make it your honored and your welcome guest. It comes from God and is the word of God, an angel visitant, sent as of old to heal, to minister, to save. Is that which clamors for admission a base, sinister, degraded thought, a thought of want, discouragement, hate, fear, anger, sickness, death? Then bar it out, for it will express itself, bear fruit after its own kind. How bar it, say you? By recalling and recalling the thoughts, the angels of God and of His Christ, the truths taught in the Bible by Jesus, emphasised, illuminated, and made practical by Christian Science, until these shall be an angel legion round about you to guide you, guard you, and have charge over you.

How often do we hear the question, How can I help what I think? and the assertion, No one can help what he thinks. We not only can help what we think, but in order to do better, feel better, be better, we must help what we think, for as a man "thinketh in his heart, so is he;" and the way that has been indicated, the way that Christian Science teaches, is the only way in which this help can come; the only way under heaven in which men can be saved here, now, anywhere, everywhere, from ills of any and of every kind. It is the only way in which one and all, irrespective of time, place, vocation, circumstances, can be truly armed and prepared, have absolute safetly and complete efficiency.

DISCOVERER AND FOUNDER

What has been said will but dimly indicate the teachings of the most ideal, yet most practical and scientific system of ethics and healing discovered in the words and works of our Master by Mrs. Eddy. Through her faithful, loving, Christlike leadership Mrs. Eddy founded this system, Christian Science, and advanced it to its present world-wide acceptance. Bringing what she did to the world—the "pearl of great price," the applicable demonstrable Christianity of Christ Jesus, whoch has proved itself such by comforting, reforming and healing the vast majority of those who have honestly, earnestly studied her books—she has enriched the world beyond all reckoning. Hundreds of thousands of her beneficiaries rejoice in bearing grateful witness to their appreciation of her divine service to them and to all mankind.

As on who had the privilege of visiting her home, let me say that all about Mrs. Eddy was of the very simplest. In her the world indeed had a true example of simple living and high thinking. Those who were with her bear loving witness to the fact that she watched, worked, and prayed without ceasing, and that she did this for all alike. That this untiring consecration has borne fruit—the fruit of purer, happier, healthier, more useful and loving lives—is attested on every hand.

Mrs. Eddy was at times reviled, but she reviled not again. So unmindful of the world was she and so mindful of God that His thoughts, messages that came and do come with healing and with blessings in their wings, were always her thoughts. Her one prayer was to be God's faithful messenger. The answer to this prayer was certainly vouchsafed to her. Mary Baker Eddy founded a world-wide religion, a religion that is Science, a Science that is Christian and that both heals and saves.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.
